Impeachment Trial—Opening Argument of the Managers—Synopsis of Mr. Butler's Remarks—Court Adjourns Till To-Day—Other Proceedings—Conference Report on the Bill for Relief of Manufacturers—New Jersey and the Constitutional Amendment.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 30, 1868.

SENATE.

The Senate reassembled at eleven o'clock.

Mr. EDMUNDS called up the bill to regulate appeals to the Court of Claims, which was amended and postponed until to-morrow.

Mr. TRUMBULL called up the bill pending on adjournment till Saturday to relieve Mr. Butler, of Tennessee, from political disabilities.

The question was on Mr. BUCKALEW'S amendment to strike out the word "constitution" from the clause proposing to relieve disabilities imposed by the Constitution and reconstruction laws.

Mr. BUCKALEW argued that the reconstruction laws having no application to Tennessee, Mr. Butler could not properly be relieved from the disabilities imposed by them. He gave way at the suggestion of Mr. SHERMAN, who presented the report of the Committee of Conference on the bill to relieve certain manufactures from internal taxation.

Mr. HENDRICKS moved the report lay over till to-morrow and be printed.

Mr. SHERMAN urged immediate action, saying everything objectionable to the Senate had been stricken out.

Several Senators opposed acting on the report immediately, and Mr. SHERMAN consented it should go over, giving notice he would press it as early as possible.

Mr. HENDRICKS' motion was modified so as to order the printing simply and agreed to.

IMPEACHMENT TRIAL.

At 12:30 the President pro tem vacated the Chair, which was immediately taken by Chief Justice Chase.

The Sergeant-at-Arms made proclamation, commanding silence. The President's counsel took seats.

At 12:35 the Sergeant-at-Arms announced the Managers on the part of the House, who took places, except Mr. Stevens, who entered soon afterwards and took a seat slightly apart. The House was then announced, and the members appeared, headed by Mr. Washburne, of Illinois, and were seated.

The minutes of the last day were read.

OPENING ARGUMENT OF THE PROSECUTION.

Mr. BUTLER commenced his opening speech at a quarter before one o'clock. He spoke at great length, presenting to the Senate the several propositions of fact and law upon which the House of Representatives would endeavor to sustain the cause of the people against the President. The speaker reviewed the impeachment trials of other countries, in order to show in the light of those precedents what really constituted impeachable offences. He defined an impeachable high crime or misdemeanor to be one in its nature or consequences subversive of some fundamental or essential principle of Government, or highly prejudicial to the public interest, and this might consist of a violation of the Constitution, of law, of an official oath, or of duty, by an act committed, or omitted, or, without violating a positive law, by the abuse of discretionary powers from improper motives, or for any improper purpose.

Mr. Butler referred to the impeachment of Lord Danby, a case, he said, which went a great way toward establishing the principle that no Minister could shelter himself behind the throne by pleading obedience to the orders of his sovereign. He was answerable for the justice, the honesty, the utility of all measures emanating from the Crown, as well as for their legality, and the executive administration was thus or ought to be subordinate in all great matters of policy to the superintendence or the virtual control of the two Houses of Parliament.

The speaker then reviewed the question whether the High Court of Impeachment was really the Senate or not, and passed on to the matter of the competency of one of the triers, on account of affinity to the accused, saying: We believe it is right, nay, his duty to the State he re presents, to sit upon the trial as he would upon any other matter which should come before the Senate. His seat and vote belong to his constituents and not to himself, to be used according to his best judgment upon every grave matter that comes before the Senate.

Mr. Butler then recited the articles of impeachment and said: The House of Representatives and the people have joined issue with Andrew Johnssn as to his right to act as he has. This bill which he has violated received the requisite sanction of both the Senate and House of Representatives, after a full consideration of his objections. If he is to be allowed to exercise this dangerous power of removal, where is it to end? Does the Constitution invest the President with all the Executive power which is enjoyed by Kings and rulers of other nations? If so, it has been much more liberal to him than the Legislative branch of the government. The Executive power of appointment is clearly limited by the words of the Constitution, which orders the consent of the Senate necessary. The power which he has assumed to exercise is kingly. The power of removal was very elaborately debated in the first Congress on the bill to create a State Department. It was debated for four days, and finally was so framed as to imply the power of removal in the President. But the triumph of its supporters was short-lived. When it came to the House, on motion of Mr. Benson, the provision implying the powers of removal in the President was stricken out. It went back to the Senate, but as the debates there were in secret session we have no means of knowing what did take place. But we learn from the journal that this provision, implying the power of removal, was retained by the casting vote of John Adams, the Vice President. Alas! most all our woes have come from Vice Presidents. Notwithstanding this, the facts show that the President made no removal without notifying the Senate. President Adams removed Mr. Pickering by nominating a successor to the Senate. None of the early Presidents had ever attempted to exercise the unlimited power of removal now assumed by the present occupant of that chair. Congress has always asserted a legislative power in reference to removals from office, sometimes in one way and sometimes in another. Upon the whole, never until now has the exclusive control over appointments to office been exercised by the President. In 1826 the powers of the President were canvassed in Congress, and a Committee was appointed on the subject, who reported that it was necessary to trim down his power by statutory enactment, and reported no less than eight different bills on the subject. One of them vacated within a certain time all offices pertaining to a collection of revenue. Here was a tenure of office act, reported by one of the greatest minds of the country. It did not seem to occur to Congress, then, that it had not the power to regulate appointments to and removals from office.

Mr. B. cited further acts of Congress in support of his position, and after stating the events of February, the removal of Stanton, appointment of Thomas, and the interview with General Emory, concluded his argument as follows:

Who does not know that from the hour the President began his usurption of power he everywhere denounced Congress, the legality and constitutionality of its action, and defied its legitimate powers, and for that purpose announced his intention and carried out his purpose, as far as he was able, of removing every true man from office who sustained the Congress of the United States. And it is to carry out this plan of action that he claims the unlimited power of removal, for the illegal exercise of which he stands before you this day. Who does not know that in pursuance of the same plan he used his veto power indiscriminately to prevent the passage of wholesome laws, enacted for the pacification of the country? And when the laws were passed by the constitutional majority over his vetoes, he made the most determined opposition, both open and covert, to them, and for the purpose of making that opposition effectual, he endeavored to array and did array all the people lately in rebellion to set themselves against Congress, and against the true and loyal men, their neighbors, so that murders, assassinations and massacres were rife all over the Southern States, which he encouraged by his refusal to consent that a single murderer be punished, though thousands of good men have been slain. And further, that he attempted by military order to prevent the execution of acts of Congress by the military Commanders who were charged therewith. These and his concurrent acts show conclusively that his attempt to get the control of the Government, by the seizing of the Department of War, was done in pursuance of his general design, if it were possible, to overthrow the Congress of the United States. And he now claims by his own will, for the execution of this very design, the obedience of every officer of the army and navy, and civil and diplomatic service of the United States. He asks you here, Senaters, by your solemn adjudication to confirm him in that right, to invest in him that power, to be used with the intents and for the purposes which he has already shown. The responsibility is with you. The safeguards of the Constitution against usurpation are in your hands. The interests and hopes of free institutions wait upon your decision.

The House of Representatives has done its duty. We have presented the facts in a Constitutional manner. We have brought the criminal to your bar, and demand judgment at your hands for his so great crimes. Never again, if Andrew Johnson go acquit and free this day, can the people of this or any other country by Constitutional checks and guards stay the usurpations of executive power. I speak, therefore, not the language of exaggeration, but the words of truth, of soberness, in saying that the future political welfare and liberties of all men hang trembling on the decision of the hour.

Mr. BINGHAM, of the Managers, rose and said: "Mr. President—The Managers on the part of the House are ready to proceed with the testimony to make good the Articles of Impeachment exhibited by the House of Representatives against the President of the United States, and my associate, Mr. Wilson, will present the testimony."

Mr. WILSON—"I wish to state in behalf of the Managers that notwithstanding the meaning of the documents which we deem important to be presented in evidence have been set out in the exhibits accompanying the answers, and also in some of the answers, we still are of opinion it is proper for us to introduce the documents originally by way of guarding against any mishaps that might arise from imperfect copies set out in the answers."

Mr. WILSON then offered in evidence certified copies of the oath of office of President Johnson, of the appointment of Secretary Stanton by President Lincoln, of the ratification of said appointment, and of President Johnson's communication to the Senate assigning his reasons for the suspension of the Secretary of War, after which the Court adjourned till twelve o'clock to-morrow, and the Chief Justice vacated the chair.

The President pro tem. called the Senate to order.

The report of the Committee of Conference on the bill to relieve certain manufactures from internal tax was taken up. After considerable debate it was agreed to, whereupon the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. CHURCHILL introduced a bill to amend the act of March 1st, 1792, relative to vacancies in the office of President and Vice President of the United States, requiring a new election in case of an interval of eighteen months between the double vacancy and the ordinary termination of the Presidential term. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. CHURCHILL introduced a bill supplementary to the several acts relating to pensions offered by the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Mr. HAIGHT presented a joint resolution as to withdrawing the consent of New Jersey to the proposed amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

Mr. ELDRIDGE called for the reading of the document.

After the Clerk had commenced the reading, Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, asked the Speaker whether it was in order to move to the return of the document to the New Jersey Legislature?

The SPEAKER said it was not, because all papers presented in the morning hour must be referred without debate.

Mr. WASHBURNE said that if it were in order he would make that motion as a rebuke to a disloyal Legislature.

The Clerk resumed the reading and was again interrupted by Mr. ELDRIDGE, who said he would not insist on the reading if the resolution would appear in the Globe.

The SPEAKER said the reading might as well be continued now as the time for going over to the Senate had almost arrived.

Mr. PILE said—Let the document be read, and I object to its being printed.

Mr. WASHBURNE gave notice he would make a motion to suspend the rules in order that the document might be returned to the New Jersey Legislature.

The SPEAKER, at half past twelve, suspended proceedings, and announced that in accordance with resolution the House would resolve itself into Committee of the Whole, and headed by its Chairman, Mr. Washburne, of Illinois, attend the Managers to the bar of the Senate.

The order was carried out.

The House re-assembled at 4:30, when Mr. WASHBURNE, Chairman of the Committee, reported he had attended the Court of Impeachment, that progress had been made in the trial of President Johnson, and the Senate as a Court of Impeachment adjourned until twelve to-morrow.

The SPEAKER said the report would be entered on the journal, and asked if the gentleman from Illinois had any suggestion to make as to the hour of meeting to-morrow?

Mr. WASHBURNE suggested to meet at a quarter before twelve o'clock, so as to give time to read the journal.

Mr. BANKS proposed to meet at eleven o'clock.

Mr. SCHENCK desired to meet at eleven or half past ten, to consider the Conference report on the bill to relieve certain manufacturers from tax.

The SPEAKER asked if there was any objection to the proposition?

Mr. KERR objected.

The House resumed the consideration of the joint resolution of the New Jersey Legislature withdrawing assent to the Constitutional amendment.

Mr. SCHENCK gave notice of the motion for a suspension of the rules to provide for a meeting at half-past ten o'clock to-morrow.

Mr. ELDRIDGE made the point of order that the gentleman from Ohio could not interrupt the reading of the resolution.

The SPEAKER ruled as the morning hour of the session of Monday had expired after the reading of the journal, the resolution must go over to next Monday.

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, moved a suspension of the rules for the purpose of offering a resolution in reference to the paper offered by Mr. Haight.

The SPEAKER ruled the paper was not before the House.

Mr. SCHENCK moved to suspend the rules so as to order a recess till half-past ten to-morrow.

After some filibustering such action was taken.

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, moved to suspend the rules for the purpose of making the following order:

Resolved, That the resolution of the Legislature of New Jersey, purporting to withdraw the assent of said State to the Constitutional amendment known as the 14th article, be returned by the Speaker of the House to the gentleman who presented it, for the reason that the same is disrespectful to the House, scandalous in character, and its title only shall be referred to in the journal and in the Congressional Globe.

Mr. HAIGHT said he supposed the Chair had already decided that question.

The SPEAKER said the motion was different from that before suggested, and was in order.

Mr. ELDRIDGE said if the resolution was not before the House, it was the property of the gentleman from New Jersey, and could not be taken from him.

This was denied by the SPEAKER, when

Mr. ROSS demanded the reading of the resolution of the New Jersey Legislature.

The SPEAKER said the gentleman had no right to demand the reading.

Mr. ELDRIDGE remarked—We are required to return to the New Jersey Legislature a resolution as being scandalous, without knowing what it is.

The SPEAKER said that was an argument which addressed itself to the gentleman's vote and not to the parliamentary condition of the resolution.

Mr. HAIGHT made the point of order that the resolution of the Legislature had not been read, which was overruled by the Speaker.

Finally, Mr. WASHBURNE'S motion and resolution was adopted—eighty to seventeen.

On motion of Mr. SCHENCK the rules were suspended, and a resolution to print five thousand copies of Mr. Butler's speech with accompanying brief, and forty thousand without the brief, was offered and referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. SHANKS introduced a bill authorizing a District Court to be held at Fort Wayne, Indiana. Referred to Judiciary Committee.

Mr. BANKS moved to suspend the rules to provide for a meeting at eleven o'clock every day this week, except Tuesday.

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, objected and moved an adjournment. Carried.

Adjourned.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

—On Thursday, April 15th, the printers of Philadelphia will each set one thousand ems of type in aid of the Artemus Ward monumental fund.

—The Republican Convention of New Hampshire, for the choice of delegates to the National Convention, meets at Concord on the 5th of May.

—Thaddeus Stevens publishes a letter in the New York Tribune, heartily endorsing General Grant for President, and saying that Wade is his choice for Vice President.

—The President will reply to Mr. Edmunds' resolution of inquiry—adopted in the Senate—that he derives his power to order a new military department from his right as Commander-in-Chief of the army and navy of the United States.

—We are informed by Associate Press telegrams that a leading railway official has absconded, taking with him several millions of the company's money. We take no stock in the report. It is evidently written in the Vanderbilt interest, and on its face seems to show that fact.

—The Plasterers of Washington City, now on a strike, have received an endorsement from the Plasterers' Society of Chicago, with the promise of $2,000 per week until their strike is successful. Similar action has been taken by the Baltimore Society, and also by the District Typographical Society.

—In Philadelphia, the Eleventh Baptist Church had for a pastor Rev. J. Heath Smith, who resigned and was succeeded by Rev. R. S Thasin. The latter did not suit the congregation, and on Sunday one of the deacons arose and told him his sermon was not fit to be heard, while another deacon ordered the organ to be played. This soon caused great confusion and the congregation was summarily dismissed. This affair caused a great deal of excitement, and the church was placed in the hands of the police.

—The Worcester (Mass.) Spy says the Association in that city to aid in the formation of a colony in the West was fully organized Tuesday evening. Trustworthy agents were appointed to go West as soon as the season permitted to select the most favorable locality and purchase land for a large colony.

—Some two hundred mechanics of Boston, who had managed to get through the winter, hoping for a revival of business in the Spring, have become thoroughly discouraged, and leave for California this week.

—Messrs. Rosseau's brick planing mill, and a large quantity of lumber owned by Sturd, Evlar & Andrews, at West Troy, New York, was burnt by an incendiary fire Saturday morning.

—Action has been taken by the Senate of New York which virtually kills the bill amending the Metropolitan excise law passed by the Assembly.

—The counting room of A. G. & J. Brown, fruit dealers, State street, Boston, was robbed of a large amount of money on Saturday.

Supplementary Reconstruction Act Promulgated--Gen. Hancock and His New Command--State Tax on Deposits--Supreme Court Decisions--Mixed Up Congressional Report---Impeachment Witnesses Ready--Second Conference Committee Report on Tax Bill Agreed to by the Senate.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 30, 1868.

RECONSTRUCTION ACT PROMULGATED.

Secretary Stanton has issued in the form of a general order the act of Congress amendatory of the act act passed March 21st, 1867, to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States. It is accompanied by a note by the Secretary of State, saying "the foregoing act having been presented to the President for approval, and not having been returned by him within the time constitutionally prescribed, has become a law without his approval."

GEN. HANCOCK AND HIS NEW COMMAND.

Gen. Hancock has returned to this city and will, it is thought, soon issue a general order assuming his new command. He was with the President some time this morning. The following is the order assigning Gen. Hancock to duty in the Division of the Atlantic:

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, March 27, 1868.

General orders No. 17. By direction of the President of the United States Maj. Gen. Hancock is relieved from command of the Fifth Military District and assigned to the command of the Military Division of the Atlantic, created by general orders No. 10, of February 12th, 1868.

By command of GENERAL GRANT,
E. D. TOWNSEND, Asst. Ajt. Gen.

TAX BILL CONFERENCE.

The second Committee of Conference on disagreeing to the amendments to the bill to exempt certain manufactures from duty, etc., have agreed upon a report which it is thought will be adopted by the two Houses. They alter the whiskey sections so as to inflict imprisonment and fine upon all distillers, Government officers and others connected with or colluding in frauds, and forfeit the distilleries in such cases. Other punishments are stricken out. One of the Committee says Government contractors for machinery, etc., have not been benefitted by the change in the bill. Mr. Ferry, of Michigan, one of the Committee, advocated an amendment, that manufactured lumber be exempt from tax on sales, and Mr. Brooks urged, in behalf of consumers, that flour should also be thus exempted. The report so provides, and those articles will, therefore, remain free as under the present law.

IMPEACHMENT WITNESSES.

Major General Thomas, Col. William G. Moore, Private Secretary of the President, and other witnesses, were at the Capitol to-day waiting to be called.

STATE TAX ON DEPOSITS.

The Supreme Court to-day gave an opinion in a case from Massachusetts, involving the question of State tax on deposits in a Savings Bank. The points are similar to those in the Connecticut decision, viz: that the tax can be imposed on deposits in such institutions, no matter in what form invested.

A MIX UP.

In the report of Saturday's House proceedings the argument of Mr. Williams, of Pennsylvania, against the Alabama bill, got mixed with the remarks of Mr. Bingham, who advocated it. Mr. Williams' remarks, attributed to Mr. Bingham, commenced where he says "I cannot shut my eyes to the fact that this government was built by white men, on ideas peculiar to that race," and continue to the close of what appears to be Bingham's speech.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

In the Supreme Court, case No. 55, Fred P. James et al., appellants, vs. Milwaukee and Minnesota Railroad Company, appeal from Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Wisconsin. Justice Nelson delivered the opinion of the Court reversing the decision of said Circuit Court, with costs, and remanding the case for further proceedings in conformity to decree of this Court. Justice Miller dissenting.

No. 8, original, Milwaukee and Minnesota Railroad Company, petitioners. Justice Nelson delivered the opinion of the Court, denying the petition for a mandamus.

No. 84. The Ætna Insurance Company, plaintiffs in error, vs Samuel H. Webster, in error to Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Michigan. Chief Justice Chase delivered the opinion of the Court, affirming the judgment of said Court, with costs.

No. 156. Williamson Wright, plaintiff, in error, vs. James Mott, in error to Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Indiana. On motion of Mr. Pierrepont, of counsel for defendants in error, it was ordered by the Court that the writ of error be dismissed under the sixteenth rule.

WILL ASSUME COMMAND.

Gen. Hancock's order assuming command of the new military division of Atlantic will be issued to morrow.

ST. LOUIS

Supreme Court Cases—Judgment in Favor of General Grant.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, March 30.—In the Supreme Court to-day the case of General Grant vs. Joseph W. White, for unlawfully retaining possession of a farm near this city, belonging to Mrs. Grant, was decided in favor of plaintiff. The Supreme Court also decided the case of Edward S. Rowse, State and County Collector, vs. Washington University, for State and county taxes, in favor of Rowse, the Court holding that under the new law the University must pay taxes notwithstanding its charter provides for perpetual exemption.

Fatal Affray at a Dinner Table.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 30.—A dispute occurred on Saturday at a dinner table at the Franklin House, in Tuscumbia, Ala., between Robert Cunningham, of the rebel army, and a Mr. Collins, of the federal army, relative to the Arkansas elections. Cunningham drew a revolver, but before he could use it Collins shot him with a single barrel pistol, killing him instantly. Cunningham's pistol was discharged as he fell, but without effect. Collins surrendered himself immediately.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

Senate Not in Session—Greensburg, Youghiogheny and Brownsville Railroad—Veto of the Free Railroad Bill.

[Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, March 30, 1868.

The SENATE is not in session.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The bill incorporating the Greensburg, Youghiogheny and Brownsville Railroad Company, passed finally.

The Governor has vetoed the Free Railroad Law, in a long message, in which he recites that it does not meet the requirements of the people, and is unconstitutional, because it embraces more than one subject, providing for new roads and relating to old roads.

FREE RAILROAD BILL VETOED.

[By Associated Press.]

HARRISBURG, March 30.—Gov. Geary has sent to the House his veto of the Free Railroad bill recently passed in the Legislature. He declares it unconstitutional in giving extraordinary powers by authorizing Railroad Companies to increase their capital stock without limit.

SOUTHERN STATES

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

VIRGINIA.

RICHMOND, Va., March 30.—In the Convention to-day an ordinance authorizing the issue of certificates of indebtedness to members of the Convention up to April 6th, receivable at the State Treasury in payment of all dues to the State, was referred.

A resolution to suspend payment of interest on the State debt was referred.

The report on education was finished. Another amendment to separate the two races in schools was lost—thirty-seven to twenty-one. The ordinance directs the establishment of a uniform system of free schools to be in operation by the year 1874.

MISSISSIPPI.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

JACKSON, Miss., March 30.—In the Convention one section of the Judiciary report was adopted. A motion to take a recess of three weeks was lost. The policy is not to adjourn until the impeachment trial closes.

CALIFORNIA.

Legislature Adjourned—Earthquake Shocks Non-Arrival of China Steamer.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—The Legislature adjourned sine die to-day. It passed acts creating a State University, and providing funds for the same; granting terminal privileges to the Pacific Railroad; abolishing the State Geological Survey, appropriating fifteen thousand dollars to meet the deficiency during the past two years, to wind up the affairs; refused to repeal the present Sunday law, or to elect a State Harbor Commissioner.

Slight shocks of an earthquake were experienced in the city on Saturday and Sunday nights.

The sailing of the Golden City was postponed until to-morrow evening, owing to the non arrival of the steamer China from Hong Kong.

Railroads in Maine.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

BANGOR, March 30.—This city voted by a large majority to loan a credit of one million dollars to the European North American Railway; also $15,000 per mile to the Bangor and Piscatquis road. This secures the building of both roads.

Arrival of Coolies at Havana.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HAVANA, March 30.—The Portugese vessel Maria Louisa, formerly an American vessel, has brought two hundred coolies from Macoa. The coolies were guarded on the trip by thirty Portuguese soldiers to prevent muliny.

Masonic Lodge of Sorrow.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—A Masonic Lodge of Sorrow was held this evening in respect for the memory of the late Wm. Backins Schneider, Grand Tyler of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania. Nearly one thousand Masons were present.

Arrest of a Murderer.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

BUFFALO, March 30.—Abraham B. Mills, canal boat captain, who murdered Patrick Malone in this city, August 13th, 1867, was brought here from Grand Rapids, Michigan, and lodged in jail to-day.

THE COURTS.

United States District Court—Judge McCandless.

In the bankruptcy branch of this Court, a petition for final discharge was filed by Henry Fulmer, of Sullivan county. The usual orders were made by the Court.

The following petitions for adjudication in bankruptcy were filed: Nelson Decker, of Scranton, Lawrence C. Conklin, Wyoming county, and John Shields, Armstrong county.

District Court—Judge Williams.

Dennis Richardson and wife vs. Dr. M. R. Trevor: action to recover for alleged malpractice, on the part of defendant, in attending Mrs. Richardson for a broken arm. This is the third time this case has been tried, it having been before the Common Pleas twice, and in each instance the plaintiffs were non-suited. On trial.

Quarter Sessions—Judge Mellon.

Charles Miller, indicted for the larceny of goods from the auction store of Palmer & Phillips, was found not guilty.

W. H. Stewart pleaded guilty to an indictment for assault and battery upon a fellow employe at Lewis, Dalzell & Co.'s rolling mill, Sharpsburg, and was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars and costs. He was also required to enter bail in $300 to keep the peace for one year.

Nicholas Knoerr, newsman, indicted for assault and battery upon Christian Jeckel, put in a plea of guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars and costs, and required to give security in the sum of $300 to keep the peace for one year.

William White and Charles Fury, boys, convicted of the larceny of hosiery, were sentenced—the former to the county jail for one month, and the latter to the House of Refuge.

The Court adjourned early (until to-day) in consequence of the absence of witnesses in a case fixed for trial.

From Messrs. Ticknor & Fields, we have the Atlantic for April, which is certainly an improvement on the March number.

TACK-O'CONNOR CASE.

Defendant's Pressing for Trial—Friday, April 14th, Fixed.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 30, 1868.

Commonwealth vs. Tack Brothers, Judge Pierce presiding.

Mr. Cassidy—If your Honor please, on the 4th of March the Grand Jury found a true bill in this case. We now desire to plead to this bill and have a time fixed for the trial. The District Attorney will give us no satisfaction. We wish to have some day fixed for the trial of this case, and we now ask your Honor to name such a day, as this case is of great importance, not only to the defendants but to the public.

Mr. Mann—We are extremely gratified to learn that the gentlemen on the other side are ready for trial, and if they will favor us with a plea we will endeavor to fix some day for the trial of the case.

Mr. Cassidy—We enter a plea of not guilty.

Mr. Mann—We would ask for ten days in which to make preparation for this trial. The other side must be satisfied of the fact that it requires some preparation.

Mr. Collis—My client has not been a party to this bill.

Mr. Cassidy—I was here ten days ago on a day fixed for trial, and came in Court with thirty witnesses in attendance; but the case could not be tried, because Mr. Mann was engaged in the contested election case.

Mr. O'Brien—It was then suggested by Mr. Mann that the operations would be of a dilatory character, and put it beyond the reach of trial: that is now obviated by the entry of our plea of not guilty.

Mr. Mann—The time was simply accorded to us. The witnesses for the Commonwealth are in Pittsburgh, and we would be utterly unable to try the case this week. There are, besides, a large number of prison cases to attend to, and to try this case now would be to keep a large number of persons in prison. Not only that, but we would not have sufficient time to prepare the case. Say to-day two weeks. They attempt to make us hurry it on, and before the time arrives they will find something to make a delay on their side. We will have to-day two weeks open. We will then try.

Mr. Cassidy—The time fixed goes into the next term. It is unusual. The Commonwealth is supposed to be ready at all times. A full hearing of this case was had on the habeas corpus, and they have no excuse for not being ready. The main transaction involves matters in Pittsburgh. We will be ready in good faith with this case, and we want a day fixed for trial. I expect to leave shortly and want this case tried.

Mr. Cassiday—I am here with my colleagues ready for the trial of this case, and if we have any rights here we demand a trial. Mr. Mann will not fix a day and we ask the court to do it.

Mr. Mann—I will fix a day, but I would wish to say that some people have been to Harrisburg and got a bill passed to affect this case.

Mr. Cassidy—We have nothing to do with any such bill. We demand our trial.

Mr. Mann—You will have thirteen days in which to get away. I have a great many things I want to do. Make it Wednesday, the 15th. You will then have ten days. Monday is a bad day.

Mr. Cassidy—It is not improbable that this case will take one or even two weeks. I have no doubt whatever but that on both sides there will be one hundred witnesses, and there are fourteen lawyers.

Mr. Mann—Then it's pretty certain that no one will know anything about the case.

Judge Peirce—So far as I am concerned I have no power in the matter. My term expires with this month and I would suggest that you agree upon a day satisfactory to both.

Mr. Mann—We have agreed your Honor upon Tuesday, the 14th of April.

BY THE RIVER.

The sunshine quivered on the quivering poplars
That grow beside the stream:
And o'er the distant hills there seemed a glory,
A gold and purple gleam;
And I know
That even in the March wind there was music,
And in the river's flow.

I love to hear the sighing of the water,
To mark its green depths shine;
But more I love two brown eyes, calm and tender,
A dear hand clasped in mine;
For I know
I thought that love would last forever, changeless,
Though rivers ceased to flow.

Gone is the sunshine from the quivering poplars,
The glory from the land;
Gone, the brown eyes that made the sunshine brighter
And gone the clasping hand;
But I know
My tears are like the river—ah, the river!
That cannot cease to flow.

EPHEMERIS.

—New York has a Ku-Klux-Klan.

—Buchanan Read is at Rome painting.

—Fredericksburg, Va., is to have a street road.

—Hunnicutt wants to be Governor of Virginia.

—Ten thousand men are digging the Suez canal.

—A Galveston Alderman is to be impeached.

—500 new buildings are going up in Kankakee (Ill.)

—Mrs. Kemble is to read in Washington to-morrow.

—Camden authorities have stopped the corner lounging nuisance.

—Besloshed is a word applied to liquid streets by the Boston Post.

—Eggs are cooked in 227 different ways in Paris, and people eat them.

—The Exile of Erie is what Daniel Drew is now called in New York.

—Dr. Sears, Agent of the Peabody Fund, was in Andersonville last week.

—Train being confined for debt in jail is about to issue a daily newspaper.

—The Chief Justice of Liberia has been impeached and removed from office.

—In Virginia City two mullen stalks and a bunch of thistles are called a grove.

—Generals Garfield and Sickles are stumping Connecticut, particularly Sickles.

—The Duke of Brunswick is to make the ex-Crown Prince of Hanover his heir.

—Prof. Blot has been appointed director of the Rumford food laboratory in Boston.

—Somebody has estimated that in all Europe there are but twenty millions of books.

—Cincinnati has a wooden skating rink for summer use. Parlor skates are to be used.

—A suspension bridge across the harbor at San Francisco is the latest California sensation.

—During his last illness General Asboth had fifteen physicians. No wonder at all that he died.

—"Oh Stubbs where is thy victory; oh Boggs where is thy S Tyng?" sighs the Chicago Post.

—Two thousand dollars was the price paid for a copy of Andubon's works in New York recently.

—In the Government stores at Jeffersonville (Ind.) are $52,000,000 worth of Government property.

—Prince Salm-Salm is in Brussels for the purpose of delivering Maximilian's last message to Carlotta.

—Theatrical exhibitions by Deaf Mutes are considered quite the thing in Prague, the capital of Bohemia.

—Too much whisky among a stock company does not close every theatre, although it did the Memphis one.

—Emily Melville, who is something of a favorite here, has been playing La Grande Duchesse in San Francisco.

—A German astronomer thinks he has found greens in the moon; a little bacon, and the thing would be complete.

—The new St. James Hotel in Boston has 400 rooms, sixteen miles of bell wire, and Stetson, of the Astor, for Landlord.

—Six months ago a wilderness, now a flourishing town with a good theatre and several churches. That is Cheyenne.

—The New York Express says that young ladies have become fond of music, for most of them carry brass bands in their heads.

—A week ago Saturday the snow at Gordonsville, Virginia, was twenty inches deep. Yet Virginia calls itself a Southern State.

—The King of Hanover is disconsolate. He has lost the income of $30,000,000 by the late confiscation performed by Prussia.

—A Baltimore company has leased the White Sulphur Springs, and the hotels will be open and ready for visitors this summer.

—The All England Eleven are to visit Canada and Detroit this summer. Cricket will get ahead of base ball in those places this year.

—A New York weather prophet lives on the roof of a five story hotel. His name is Thatcher. Thatchers generally have a good deal to do with roofs.

—Washington bricklayers get $4.50 a day. We would advise all persons (millionaires only excepted) to turn bricklayers and settle in Washington.

—The first whaler of the season has arrived at New London (Ct.) One of the most successful whalers we ever knew taught school in Allegheny.

—50,000 bushels of grain were dropped into three feet of water in a cellar in a grain house, in Peoria recently, by the yielding of the floor on which it was stored.

—Matches are made in Boston! At least we judge that a good many of them are, as a certain manufacturer in that city paid $400,000 for one cent stamps last year.

—Paraguay and Brazil still fight and say that they will do so for some time longer. Lopez vs. Pedro is the case, and Pedro seems to generally get the worst of it.

—Norway, Sweden and Denmark are clubbing together to get up a monthly line of steamers to this country. Denmark has a monthly steamer to and from Iceland.

—Farragut and Grant are personal friends and the Admiral is an out spoken Radical. How the list of availables dwindles down when Democrats look out for candidates.

—A crow-black eagle, six feet eight from tip to tip, was caught in a trap, a few days ago, in Caswell, N. C. For months he had been a destroyer among the sheep, pigs and poultry.

—Dubuque, which is in the same latitude as Boston, is so warm that linen coats are common on the backs of men in the streets. Cold will be common there too before long.

—Rev. Stephen H. Tyng, in his last letter to Bishop Potter, styles himself "Your servant in the Church." Like most other American servants, he likes to have the upper hand.

—Carlotta Patti's husband, M. Scola, has gone raving mad, and Impressario Ullman has been forced to stop in his career to fortune, because Carlotta will not sing when her husband is so afflicted.

—The Captain and crew of the New Brunswick schooner M. P. were taken off of an island in Penobscot Bay, on the 23d inst. They had been wrecked and had had forty-eight hours of Crusoe life.

—The New York Tribune objects to La Belle Helene, which the Bateman troupe has just brought out. Three years ago it was ordered off the stage at Hamburgh by the authorities of that free city, so noted for moral laxity, because it was too obscene and indecent even for them.

—One after the other, sooner or later, all of the respectable journals in the country are joining in the crusade against the indecent publications which are being cast among us. The Chicago Republican is the latest addition to the number of resisting journals.

—The new army bill has not been well received in France. Toulouse was turbulent, Emeutes were regularly organized in the streets, and the Hotel de Ville and the house of the Mayor were attacked and partially demolished, and large bodies of troops had to be brought before order could be restored

—When is money like a bullet? When it is spent. What is the difference between a bricklayer and a laborer? One lays bricks and the other takes the (h)odds. What does measles make on its first appearance? A rash promise. All of which are from the Melbourne Punch. So one can see that even in Australia people are given to such things.

—Andrew Jackson is a great blessing. If he had not existed to whom could the Republicans have compared Buchanan with so much disadvantage to that functionary? Democrats now say that if A. Johnson had been A. Jackson he would have put Stanton out at the toe of his boot. These are but two out of innumerable cases where as a thing to be compared with Andrew Jackson stands without a rival.

—Having tried in vain to kill off the reigning King of Bavaria, the cable has concluded to see if it cannot have better success in abdicating him. Perhaps it will, for a young man detesting the troubles of governing, such a life as was that of the late Ludwig the First, must have a great deal of fascination. $20,000,000 and nothing to do but amuse one's self is not a disagreeable prospect.

—Frightened by the excitement they have raised, the Ku-Klux-Klan have latterly been trying to shift the blame on radical shoulders, by saying the horrible stories in circulation are merely the work of radical imagination, gotten up to frighten negroes into voting radical tickets. This would all be very well were there not so fearfully many horrible outrages, mysterious disappearances of prominent negroes and republicans, and dreadful murders hanging to the train of the Klan.

THE NEW ORLEANS Tribune gives the following capital contrast of the two Moseses, of whom Andrew is the latest specimen:

The true Moses was the meekest of men; our Moses is the most mulish. The true Moses was a man of prayer; our Moses is a man of oaths. The true Moses was slow of speech, and had his brother for a mouthpiece; our Moses unfortunately speaks for himself. The true Moses was a great lawgiver; our Moses is a notorious law-breaker. The true Moses forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of its king; our Moses has gone down to Egypt for help. The true Moses turned his back on the foe of his country; our Moses has turned his back on his friends and the friends of his country. The true Moses "endured" to the end; our Moses has betrayed and abandoned the cause to which he swore allegiance. The true Moses led an oppressed people out of bondage; our Moses promised to do it, but left them to their foes. The true Moses labored to save the people from the bite of fiery serpents; our Moses has sought to have all the people bitten by them—i. e., Copperheads. When the true Moses died, the children of Israel wept for him 30 days; when our Moses shall leave the White House for Tennessee, all the people will say amen. The man who reeled into office ought to be ruled out.

---

—"John Paul," in the Springfield Republican, thus pleasantly sketches the members of the great publishing house of New York: The Harpers "are a queer lot,"—as the devil said of the ten commandments. There are four of them in the firm, and each has his speciality. James, the "Mayor," is the jocose man, and tells the funny stories; John, the "Colonel," is the serious man, his only frivolity being fast horses, which he keeps and delights in driving; Wesley, the "Major," is the Æsthetical man, the literary wheel-horse of the concern. If ever they want a nice story or a spirited poem, to piece out the Magazine or the Weekly, he just sits down and dashes it off in a jiffy. Fletcher, the "Cardinal," is a force felt everywhere, behind the periodicals and behind the book-shelves. He is the youngest of all, I believe, a lively young gentleman between fifty and sixty.

---

DR. BANCROFT was a Federalist of the first water, and is said to have been terribly down on the Democrats of his day, as the following story, if true, will show:

When news came of the death of President Washington the Doctor took it very hard, and seemed almost inconsolable. His friends went to comfort him, and asked what need of such grief, if the good and great man had gone to heaven—as no doubt he had—and was so much better off than to have lived longer in this troublesome world.

"Oh! it isn't the death of Washington that troubles me so," said the Doctor.

"What is it, then?" asked one of his friends.

"Oh! it is the fear that he has left the door of Paradise so wide open that some of these Democrats may get in."—Correspondence of Boston Com. Bulletin.

The Miami county (Kansas) Republican says: "The winter and spring wheat in this county looks exceedingly well. The frost did not injure it a particle. We may expect a large yield."

SECURITY AND COMFORT FOR THE TRAVELING COMMUNITY.
J. B. HARRIS' SAFETY FIRE JACKET,
Car Heater and Moderator,
For SMOKE AND HOT AIR FLUES, dispensing with the use of Stoves and Fires in or about the Passenger or Baggage Cars, with the attachment to graduate the heat to any temperature that may be desired without the possibility of firing the car or cars to which the Jacket may be attached.
Having obtained of the United States Letters Patent for a Safety Jacket which is warranted to resist the most intense heat that may be adpplied to it in the position and purpose for which it is intended. It is a sure protection from accidents by fire, originating from defective flues, or where iron pipes are used as conductors for smoke or heat. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto. I am now ready to apply my invention to stores, dwellings, factories, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c., wherever pipes as conductors are made dangerous by being overheated and security desired. I will sell, on application, rights to manufacture or to use the above invention; also, territorial rights, to such as may wish to engage in selling privileges, either by State or county.

RIVER NEWS.

Both rivers continue to recede slowly with eight and a half feet in the Allegheny, and about the same in the Monongahela. The weather yesterday was clear and pleasant, and all that could possibly be desired for the transaction of out-door business.

We have no arrivals to report, and the J. N. McCullough, for Parkersburg, and Messenger, for the Upper Mississippi, were the only departures. The Messenger left here with a good trip, and engagements below.

The Julia No. 2, from Zanesville, was due last night, and will doubtless be found in port this morning. She returns again to-day.

The towboats A. J. Baker, Lioness and N. J. Bigley, cleared yesterday, with tows of coal. The Baker had four barges and one boat, the Lioness four barges, and the Bigley two barges and one fuel boat.

The machinery on the towboat Cosgrove, which sunk on Saturday morning by coming in contact with the Railroad Bridge, is being removed, preparatory to an effort to raise her.

The Glendale, Capt. J. M. Hare, with the veteran Capt. Jas. Mellon in the office, will leave this evening for St. Louis and Missouri river, as will also the Kate Putnam, Capt. J. H. Lightner, for St. Louis and Illinois river. The new steamer Andrew Ackley, Capt. Bolie, will get off for Fort Benton this evening, and those, interested should bear this in mind.

The Echo is the regular packet for Oil City to-day, leaving promptly at four o'clock p. m. The Ida Rees is due from there to-day, and will return as usual on Thursday.

The "Express" packet Glasgow, Captain Geo. W. Johnston, is announced to leave for the Upper Mississippi on Thursday. She is a neat and commodious steamer, and offers superior accommodations for passengers.

The Argosy is due here from Cincinnati to-day, and will return as usual to-morrow.

The America, Capt. Poe, leaves for Nashville this evening without fail. As she goes clear through, passengers and shippers should bear this in mind.

The Ida Rees, Capt. Albert, of the "Rees Line," is now ready to engage freight and passengers for the Upper Missouri Gold Regions. She will be followed by the Importer, Capt. Williams and Silver Lake, Capt. Todd, of the same line.

The Great Republic passed Memphis on Friday, en route for St. Louis.

The St. Charles and Kate Robinson were advertised to leave Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Monday.

We clip the following from the Cincinnati Commercial of Sunday: The Wild Duck passed down from Pittsburgh for St. Louis last night, with two barges in tow, containing 1100 tons of nails and manufactured iron. One item of her cargo is 7000 kegs nails. The Silver Cloud also passed down from Pittsburgh for St. Louis before daylight. The Argosy returned to Pittsburgh with a full cargo, including 300 bales cotton. The Leonidas also departed for Pittsburgh with a light trip. She will load for St. Louis on her arrival at Pittsburgh.

A St. Louis telegram, under date of Saturday, has the following: The Nightingale has arrived, and the Mary Davage and barges leave to-day. A rise was looked for, but the river still holds stationary. There is good water in all the upper streams, and evidence accumulates that there will be higher water yet, in the Upper Mississippi, from the heavy snows and rains. Receipts from the North were very heavy, and from the Ohio and South large consignments are due. Rates of freight are low, and Mountain boatmen can learn of no approach to an increase in rates in their trade, although it is very necessary. The Antilope and Adkins leave to-day, and the Stockdale to-morrow, for Fort Benton. The snow storm of yesterday and Thursday passed through the Northwest. It is melting rapidly. The Union Pacific Railroad is still blocked with snow east of Cheyenne. Work is suspended in the mountain region on account of deep snow. River stationary at Keokuk; rising slowly at St. Joseph; stationary at Omaha. A large amount of freight for Fort Benton has accumulated at Sioux City. Boats will be there to take it abont April 1st.

We clip the following recent steamboat transfers from the St. Louis Democrat: Sam Gaty, by the St. Louis and Peoria Packet Company, to Ben. Johnson and Fred Dozier, each one-half for $6,500, whole boat, March 9. Big Horn, one-half to John Gilham, by John A. Tatum, for $6,000, March 4. Deer Lodge, by Memphis Packet Company, to W. T. Co., for $17,000. Nile, Wm. B. Haslet, one-fourth to Grant Marsh, for $6,500. Antelope, H.H. Symmes, to Carter & Conn, one-third, for $7,000r Lacon, St. Louis and and P. Packet Co., to H. H. Symmes and J. S. Sedam, one-half each, total $5,000. Mountaineer, Robt. Baker, R. R. Smith and John J. Roe, for $23,437, sell to W. G. Bartle, D. S. Carter and Wm. K. Ashby. Tug D. W. Hewett, Jacob Swivel and John F. Noell, of St. Louis, sell for $4,000, to Fabian Peyrault, of same city. Success, S. N. Snowden, of Pennsylvania, for $15,000, to H. A. Dohrman, one-fourth, John F. Baker, one-fourth, and Thomas H. Rea, one-half.

The Dubuque Herald says: "Mr. Lourey returned yesterday from a business trip to Pittsburgh, and succeeded admirably. He has chartered for the season the powerful stern-wheel towboat Anrelope, and purchased two barges; also, 2,000 tons of coal for the St. Paul Gas Company. The Antelope will start with her tow of six barges next Saturday for the Upper Mississippi. There will also be shipped by her a new set of gas works for Howard & McArthur.

Late St. Paul papers report Minnesota river open and in excellent navigable condition. A boat from La Crosse reached Winona, the foot of Lake Pepin, on the 22d, and in a few days navigation will be open clear through to St. Paul.

The Dubuque Herald says: The Ocean Wave has been run into the slough and both her up and down river trips abandoned for the present. There is not enough freight offering for New Orleans to induce her owner to run below, therefore she will wait "till a while ago."

The steamer W. F. Curtis, on leaving Nashville a few days ago struck one of the bridge piers, shattered her hull, and at the same time broke the office lamp, which set the bedding in the office on fire. Her clerk succeeded in putting the fire out. All the other lights were put out by the collision. A city fire engine pumped the water out of her till the damage was repaired.

The Natchez Democrat says: We understand that the Wagoner measured time with the famous new boat Frank Pargoud, isst Wednesday evening. Both boats left New Orleans together, and the Wagoner left the Paragoud out of sight, or some two miles behind, in a run of twenty-five miles.

The Lonisville Courier is responsible for the following; Emigration appears to be erratic, yet persistent in its course. The negroes are leaving Kentuck, Tennessee and other Southern States to go—God knows where. The Irish and the Scotch are leaving the old world for the new. Kentuckians are going to Missouri and the wilderness; the former slaves are going North, and the whites are going South; and the Delaware, from Pittsburgh, arrived at Nashville the other day with about forty passengers, consisting of men, women and children, who left Pennsylvania to stetle near McMinnville, Tennessee.

The towboats Collier and Mary Ann arrived at Lonisville with tows of coal, and passed down over the falls. The towboat Liberty No. 4 ascended the falls the other night with 1500 tons of iron ore for Pittsburgh.

ORDINANCES.

PITTSBURGH.

AN ORDINANCE defining the DUTIES OF THE SURVEY COMMITTEE.

SEC. 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Select and Common Councils assembled, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the duties of the Survey Committee shall be as follows, viz: They shall have charge of all surveys ordered for the boundary lines of the consolidated city; to fix and establish permanent monuments along said lines so as to distinctly define the limits of the city; to have charge of all surveys for the purpose of laying out new streets or straightening old streets in the district added to the city by consolidation, and to get up plans of the same similar to the present "City District Plan." They shall have monuments planted at all intersections or angles of streets in said district. They shall establish the width of all streets, lanes or alleys, and get up a chart of grades for the same, all of which shall be submitted to Councils for their approval.

SEC. 2. All matters in dispute as to street lines and location of new streets through private property, shall be referred to this Committee, who shall examine all complaints on the ground, and their decision in the matter shall be final, (whenever approved by Councils.)

SEC. 3. They shall authorize the City Engineer to employ a competent Corps of Engineers to carry on the above work, under his direction, supervision and control, the Committee reserving the right to confirm or reject any appointment made by the City Engineer on this corps.

SEC. 4. They shall keep a regular journal of their proceedings, which shall remain in the City Engineer's office, and deliver the same to the Committee which may succeed them; they shall present to Councils at the last stated meeting in December of each year, a full report of their proceedings, exhibiting in detail an account of the appropriation made by Councils of the disbursements made by them, and of the objects accomplished or services performed in pursuance of the same.

SEC. 2. That any ordinance or part of ordinance conflicting with the passage of this ordinance at the present time, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this ordinance.

Ordained and enacted into a law in Councils, this 26th day of March, A. D. 1868.

JAMES McAULEY, President of Select Council.

Attest: E. S. MORROW, Clerk of Select Council.

W. A. TOMLINSON, President of Common Council.

Attest: HUGH McMASTER, Clerk of Common Council.

Approved this 27th day of March, 1868.

THE TRIAL.

The Senate commenced its regular trial of the President's Impeachment yesterday, the opening argument for the Managers being delivered by Gen. BUTLER, and a synopsis thereof has reached us by telegraph. It does not seem proper to express an opinion upon the intrinsic merits of a forensic effort requiring three hours for its delivery, of which only so brief an outline is now given. It is believed, however, that the case for the Managers was fully presented in this argument, with the clearness and exhaustive ability which have been known as the characteristics of the speaker. When the full report comes to hand we will present to our readers such new points, or striking illustrations of the more familiar arguments as may be likely to interest them.

This opening argument occupied the entire session of the day. The evidence in chief for the prosecution will now be introduced and will occupy this and succeeding days until it is all submitted.

THE MISSOURI LEGISLATURE has empowered St. Louis to guarantee bonds, to the amount of $4,000,000 of the Company organized to build a bridge across the Mississippi at that city. The Councils have not yet acted in the premises. The City Election will soon be held, and members will be enlightened as to the popular judgment.

A VERY SIGNIFICANT token of the great probability that Impeachment is about to result in the incoming of a new administration, may be seen in the gathering of all the Dugald Dalgettys of politics at the Capitol, where, it is said, they are already hard at work parcelling out the leading places of trust and profit. If "Uncle Ben" gives this sort of thing the remotest breath of his sanction, he is not the man that for thirty years we have taken him to be.

IT IS CONCEDED at Washington that the new Prussian treaty for expatriation is to be substantially adopted in pending negotiations with England to the same end. Enlightened opinion in the British Empire concedes the inutility of any attempt to enforce an "exploded dogma," as Lord STANLEY styles it, against the round million of American citizens who were born within the English allegiance. This dogma is indeed exploded, so far as concerns any practical benefit to England, while it might yet have power for mischief in the case of unfriendly complications between the two countries. The negotiations, which are in progress for its express abandonment, are, therefore, in full accord with national sentiment on both sides of the Atlantic, and will speedily be led to a satisfactory conclusion.

HON. THADDEUS STEVENS has written a letter, now published in a New York journal, heartily endorsing GRANT and WADE. It is evident that in the great number of distinguished citizens who have been named in the Middle and Eastern States, there is a likelihood that the earlier votes of these States in the Chicago Convention will be so divided and so distributed as to ensure the abandonment of most, and perhaps all, of their names after the courtesy of one or two preliminary ballots. Certainly, unless the friends of CURTIN, WILSON, FENTON, HAMLIN, BUCKINGHAM, &c., can seasonably unite upon one of the number, the solid strength of the West and Northwest will be effective in securing the nomination of WADE or COLFAX, in the order that we name them. No one candidate for the second office is so strong to-day as Mr. WADE; none so absolutely likely to receive the support of a Convention has ever yet been mentioned for that office, and next to him evidently stands Mr. COLFAX. Between these gentlemen, with a balance decidedly in favor of the first, stand all the Western, Northwestern and nearly all the Southern States. Hence the need for a practical understanding among the friends of the other gentlemen who have been named as candidates, and among whom the voters of several great States, indeed of many States the strongest in Republican attachments, are likely to be ineffectively scattered. That the sturdy and unfaltering old statesman, whose letter we have alluded to, should express his preference for BEN WADE, will surprise no one who considers the harmony of their political opinions, the unswerving fidelity with which, in the darkest as well as in the clearest days, the two men have ever been found true to patriotic convictions and always in the front of the fight, or, the plain, blunt, uncompromising honesty with which they have avowed and maintained their perceptions of duty. In short, their principles, their long and varied experience, and their peculiar traits of character in public life, show the two men to be too near akin to make this declaration from one of them surprising.

DIXMONT HOSPITAL.

The Senate incorporated into the Appropriation Bill a clause reserving to the State the right of control in this Institution proportioned to the contributions from the Public Treasury. The entire bill, as amended by the Senate, failed for reasons fully explained yesterday by our regular Harrisburg correspondent. Whatever shape the bill may now take, it is most likely this special provision will be incorporated into it. If this provision shall be worded in general terms, as it was in the defeated bill, farther legislation will be needful in order to respect the rights of former individual contributors while protecting the paramount rights and interests of the Commonwealth. Perhaps in the new bill it will be found practicable to be so specific as to details as to avoid the necessity of subsequent legislation. But the condition proposed is not only proper and just, under the circumstances of the case, but has already been by far too long delayed.

Dixmont is in part a Private Institution and in part a Public One; that is, it has received both private benefactions and public endowments. Relatively, the individual donations have been small; the grants from the Treasury of the Commonwealth munificent. The equities are, consequently, all in favor of the condition precedent which it is now proposed to exact.

But this is not all. An institution of this sort is not temporary in duration. It is destined to live through many generations; we trust to the end of time; dispensing its benefits to the full limit of its capacity. It is, hence, incumbent upon the Legislature to act in regard thereto not simply with a view to the present, but with a wise reference to the vast future that stretches out interminably.

Granted that the President, Trustees and Superintendent, who now conduct the establishment, are in all particulars admirably fitted for their several functions, and are animated by a high purpose to carry into effect the design for which individuals and the State have made appropriations for the erection and maintenance of the house. Who can avouch that all their successors will be of the same pattern? There may come a time when, having obtained all needful contributions from the Commonwealth, a Board of Trustees may come into existence who will discard poor or public patients, and insist upon keeping an aristocratic establishment for the detention and treatment of wealthy persons, who are able and willing to pay high prices. We do not object to such houses. What we hold is, that no reason exists why the tax-payers should be burdened to endow them. It would be a flagrant abuse of public benefactions to apply or pervert them to such a purpose. The rich are able to provide for themselves. What the State has occasion to do, is to make provision for the paupers and such as are in low pecuniary condition and for criminals who are insane.

The State is putting near a million dollars into Dixmont. Care ought to be exercised to provide that this large sum shall be employed for all time to the end for which alone it is set apart. In no way can this be done but by insisting on the stipulation now before the Legislature. The money ought to be granted to complete the remaining wing, and to furnish it; not grudgingly, but with hearty good will; but not a dollar more of public moneys ought to be paid over until the right of the State to a voice in the management of the establishment, proportioned to its benefactions, is not only conceded but secured. The President and Managers will do well to yield the point gracefully.

Members of the Legislature should remember that this condition must be enforced now, or it probably cannot be in the future. The appropriation now solicited will complete the house, and, if it shall be obtained, the management will thenceforward be independent of the Legislature.

POLITICAL GUERRILLAS.

No party was ever more fortunate than are the Republicans, in the association of a large number of politicians and journalists, who, acting usually in general accord with the principles and avowed objects of the party, never fail to preserve their own individual integrity, and, upon occasions which are rather infrequent, to express their dissent from opinions or propositions which their consciences or judgments do not approve. It is to the just influence of this class of Republican leaders, to the fidelity with which they consider the ever paramount obligations of patriotic and unselfish duty, that the party owes its high place in the confidence of an intelligent people. We are proud of an organization which has such conscientious and intelligent exponents, and which cordially accepts the teachings of justice, of right, and of duty rather than the dangerous and wicked dictates of merely partizan advantage. We are proud of a party which has the intelligence to perceive that what is right, is, in the long run, always politic, and that the passing questions of expediency are only, with safety, solved upon the same principles which guide and maintain individual honor. We are proud of a party which, as a whole, separates itself by this broad distinction from other political associations, and which history will honor as the purest, most patriotic, most intelligent and most powerful organization ever known in American experience.

But there are also politicians and journalists, professedly acting with the Republicans, and wishing to be counted in among its influential leaders, who are in no true sense entitled to any consideration in its councils. We speak of a class much more numerous than we would wish, who, under the specious pretense of candor and of superior devotion to higher public interests, are found, in every great emergency,—when the most critical questions are up for adjustment, when public interests of the most vital character are urgently demanding exactly that settlement which the party is straining its utmost capacity to reach—turning their strength against us, embarrassing our counsels, and, as far as they can, neutralizing our efforts for the public good. We speak, and wish to speak bluntly, of a class who are but little better than political guerrillas, who for three years have been making personal profit by bush-whacking along the outer lines of party, alternately changing sides with their uniforms, for JOHNSON to-day, for GRANT to-morrow, for and against impeachment at the same time, and skilfully holding to the middle ground between sincere, uncompromising Republicanism, and the great criminal whom it has now arraigned. This class have much to say of Senatorial independence, of the folly of expecting that forty-two men should be found of one mind, unless lashed into harmony by partizan discipline. They dwell with solemn gravity upon the judicial functions of the presiding officer; they have serious doubt as to the right of the Senate, in impeachment, to pronounce upon the constitutionality of laws; they deplore the danger of setting bad precedents: they are eloquent on the duty of Senators to vote as their conscientious convictions shall prompt; they are industrious in suggesting doubts as to the competency of this Senator or that; they snatch at every flimsy thread of intrigue which could lead to dissensions and jealousies between Senators individually; they are deep in discovering and propounding new views of constitutional law or patriotic duty; in short, by every indirect and underhand way, they are doing for Andrew Johnson his dirtiest but most effective work. Just now they are painfully sensitive touching the danger of "lashing independent Senators into submission" to the party drill; they are exercised about "Thad. Stevens," "Radical menaces," "popular clamor," and all that sort of thing, and would fill their readers with the apprehension that "Radicalism," by extreme measures, may be driving the country to ruin. We have no patience with this sort of men. They are our worst enemies, because they wear a disguise which, in the smoke of battle, secures them from detection, and, for one blow at the great enemy of the country's peace, they aim a score of deadlier thrusts at the effective vigor of that organization which embodies at this moment the country's only hope. The Republican party can well spare the aid of these political cow-boys; it prefers to fight its battles without their dangerous alliance, and under the flag of uncompromising devotion to the right. They who are not for us are against us, and not even the noisy clamor with which they are now supporting the winning Presidential candidate, can ever persuade us to forget the mischief they would have done to us, or that their only principle is plunder and that they are now after personal profit rather than the maintenance of political truth.

REMOVAL OF THE STATE CAPITOL.

It was seen in the report of Legislative proceedings, published Saturday, that Mr. KLECKNER had renewed the proposition made several times within the past few years, for the removal of the Seat of Government from Harrisburg to Philadelphia. Four years ago, when the proposition was under consideration, a very liberal offer was made of buildings and grounds on or near the Schuylkill, and there seemed to be a strong probability that the measure would carry. But the citizens of Harrisburg aroused themselves, and not only frustrated the movement, but carried an appropriation for an extension of the capitol itself. This extension, if we have any capacity for judging of the cost of building, proved a fat job for some body—affording surplus enough to indemnify, had it been applied in that way, the expense of convincing the members that Harrisburg was a proper place than Philadelphia for the governmental powers to abide in. With this additional weight laid on to prevent the Dapitol from sliding away, the people of Harrisburg thought their troubles in that matter were ended, but out breaks Mr. KLECKNER with a proposal for a joint committee of three members from each of the Houses to confer with the authorities of Philadelphia, with a view to ascertaining what provisions they are inclined to make for accommodating the government if it shall elect to remove to that city.

If this proposition has been made as a round-about expedient for getting through an appropriation for a further extension of the Capitol at Harrisburg, we are opposed to it altogether. The last experiment left no doubt on our minds that enlarging the Capitol is a bad thing for the Treasury and the tax payers. As Mr. KLECKNER resides at Philadelphia it is, however, fair to infer he is in earnest; conceives it would benefit his city as well as the Commonwealth to have the Seat of the Government changed.

Simply as between Philadelphia and Harrisburg, as competing towns, and irrespective of larger considerations, the decision would be strongly in favor of the latter. The Government is located there, having been taken thither from Lancaster, and from Philadelphia when it was taken to Lancaster. Large investments have been made at Harrisburg in hotels and boarding houses, to accommodate the authorities and citizens from all parts of the State, having business therewith. The contemplated removal would directly injure many owners of this class of property, and indirectly the owners of most other kinds of real estate.

In taking a broader view, these considerations of probable individual loss or inconvenience, can find no proper place. Would the general welfare be promoted by shifting the seat of government from the Susquehanna to the Schuylkill? What the public good demands ought to be done, no matter if individuals do suffer.

The inquiry does not turn absolutely on the superior desirableness of Philadelphia over Harrisburg as a place for individuals or families connected with the government to live in, but upon what effect that greater desirableness will have in inducing a better class of persons to take office under the government. It has been supposed that if the government was located at Philadelphia individuals of the highest character and abilities would much more commonly than now consent to serve as members of legislative bodies; that the charms of larger social intercourse and the enticements of abundant and better public amusements would overcome the repugnance they now feel to the comparative isolation and inanity of Harrisburg. There may be some force in this; but not as much as Philadelphians suppose. Look at the National Capitol. Washington is an overgrown, straggling village, with few social attractions and fewer still of other kinds, apart from politics. Yet men of the rarest natural endowments, of the most exact and varied culture, and holding the highest social eminences, are most willing to accept seats in the Cabinet, or the Senate, or the House of Representatives. For the possession of political power ambitious men will ordinarily forego any or all other objects of desire. This is doubtless, as true on the smaller stage of State politics as on the grand arena of national affairs.

However, we are not unfriendly to Mr. KLECKNER's motion, only so that it does not afford a pretext for a fresh raid on the Treasury. That point guarded against, we shall be glad to know what inducements the authorities of Philadelphia are now disposed to offer for drawing thither once more the government of the Commonwealth.

A CORRESPONDENT of a Cincinnati paper, after a careful investigation of the subject, in all its constitutional and legal bearings, finds himself forced to the conclusion that the accession of Senator WADE to the Presidential office, by the removal of the present incumbent, would not vacate his seat as Senator from Ohio. The writer argues that Mr. WADE could only be President by virtue of being, as a Senator, the acting Vice President and so in the direct line of succession as provided by the Constitution. This view is supported by an elaborate reference to the language of that instrument, and of the law of 1792 pointing out and prescribing its proper application. Our Cincinnati cotemporary regards the reasoning as conclusive and is thus gratified to see that no Senatorial vacancy can occur, to be filled by a Democratic nomination.

If this view of the situation shall win, we offer to Mr. WADE our heartfelt and tenderest sympathies. We are quite sure he will bear all his blushing honors meekly, although in the aggregate, they will be a load heavy enough to crush ordinary men. He is to be a Senator from Ohio, Acting President of the Senate and Acting President of the United States, all in one. It is fortunate that his strong common sense will always enable him to see where each duty ends and the others begin. But these multiplied duties and responsibilities of the three offices combined, either one of which has been considered quite tax enough upon the patience and endurance of common men, will make Mr. WADE's place anything but a bed of roses. It would be strange if any one man living would not go stark mad within sixty days, under the load which this eminent Cincinnati jurist thus threatens to impose upon his favorite Senator.

Yet the position would have its advantages, too. How convenient! What a saving of time, provided the triple duties should not prove impossible for one man's execution! Of course, unless his mind became completely "tore up" in the possible confusion of his peculiar functions, he would vote as a Senator upon all pending measures, as President of the Senate he would stand ready to succeed himself in case, as the acting President, he should himself become defunct by impeachment or death, and, as President of the United States, with Senatorial privileges, he could veto bills from the desk, and with more or less gravity and rhetorical grace, according to his views of each case. All this would promote a harmonious co-operation between the legislative and executive departments, and the machine would work so charmingly that ere long some other eminent constitutional authority at Cincinnati will be moved to propose that the White House and the grounds, furniture, gold spoons, and all, be put up at auction as useless property, and that the proceeds be duly covered by warrant into the Treasury, or applied to the redemption of five-twenty bonds. Evidently we are just on the threshold of immense discoveries in political science, and their application to the practical requirements of the republic. Let us give them all a fair trial!

WANTED, An inscription for a monument over the late Mr. PENDLETON, the untimely, and much to be lamented close of whose career as a political candidate has draped one-fourth of the Democracy in mourning! May we be pardoned for suggesting that it would be in bad taste to suffer Mr. BELMONT, or any other of the "bond-barons" to pronounce any oration over the remains of their hapless victim. After life's financial fever, he sleeps well!

JUDGE MELLON has called down upon his head the laudations of the Post, for his opinion in the VASHON case, denying the equality and inalienability of Human Rights. If the Judge's awakened consciousness does not lead him to put the searching question to himself—What evil have I done that this journal speaks well of me, in a matter of this sort? then his sensibilities will prove less healthful than we have imagined them to be.

THE SUPREME COURT of the United States, in a recent argument of the case of Gardner vs. Barney, had a curious point raised before it with reference to the connection of the President and Congress. The paper book giving the history of the case uses the following language: "The part taken by the President in signing a bill is no part of the legislation of the country. The act is not the exercise of a legislative function. The Constitution does not require him to note the date of his approval on the bill. It only requires him to sign the bill, if he approves it. But the legislation of the country—the acts of Congress—are required to have records. The plaintiff in error maintains that the President is the third branch of the legiilature, and that accordingly his approval, without a date fixing the time of approval, is a void act, and the law is void. The decision of the Court will therefore determine whether, under the Constitution, the President is a constituent part of the National Legislature." The decision of this important point has not yet been announced by the Supreme Court.

County Teachers' Institute.

Yesterday morning a large number of teachers assembled at the hall of the Fourth Ward Public School. At ten o'clock Prof. A. T. Douthett, County Superintendent, called the meeting to order, and prayer was offered by Rev. John McMillan, of Allegheny city, after which the choir discoursed beautifully a piece of music entitled "Sweet Hallelujahs."

The following gentlemen were appointed a committee to nominate officers for the meeting, viz: Messrs. J. P. Anderson, C. A. Chamberlain, —— Jones, John Morrow and H. W. Bancroft. During the absence of the nominating committee Prof. Douthett delivered the opening address. Before entering upon his address Prof. Douthett said that the Legislature had made it obligatory on teachers to attend the annual institutes. He then read the act relative to teacher's institutes, after which he proceeded to deliver his address, which was an able and masterly effort, abounding in hard sense and beautified with the choicest English language.

At the close of the address the Nominating Committee made the following report, which was adopted, viz: Vice Presidents, Profs. A. Burt and J. M. Logan; Secretaries, Profs. R. Millis and A. D. Glenn; Treasurer, Prof. E. M. Still.

The debate, as per programme, was then taken up. Question—"Should any part of the Common School Fund be appropriated to the support of German Schools?" Mr. S. S. Andrews, of Robinson township, sustained the affirmative: Will A. Johnson, of Allegheny, the negative. General Discussion—Mr. Patterson, of Lawrenceville, spoke in favor of the negative, and Mr. McClellan spoke in favor of the affirmative. L. H. Eaton, of the Eighth ward, Pittsburgh, spoke in favor of the negative.

Rev. John McMillan then gave a lecture on "The Relation of the Pulpit to the Common Schools." The gentleman, in commencing, expressed his sympathies with the teachers in their work. He said he should not endeavor so much to answer the question as to endeavor to get the teachers to study the subject themselves. He referred to the Congress of 1786, which expressed a determination to encourage common schools—the People's College. Education should be relative to the development and culture of all the powers of man in his human nature, but the moral part of man stands above the human and is of greater importance, hence should receive special attention. It is the moral nature of man that raises him above the brute creation, and causes him to soar upward above material creation. It is a false view of education to fit a man or woman to fill a place in the world to be well fed and clothed, to aspire to office which, when they do acquire, they will probably fill to the detriment of all interested. Education should cultivate the whole man, mental, physical, moral and religious, building up an entire man, fitted for life while here and suitable for heaven hereafter.

Prof. H. W. Bancroft then presented the following rules to regulate the election of a Committee to assist in granting permanent certificates, as provided by law.

ARTICLE 1. The election shall be by ballot, each ballot containing the name of persons voted for, not exceeding five.

ART. 2. Any person shall be entitled to vote who is now regularly engaged in the common schools in this county, or must have been elected to and have taught a common school during the present year, or who have been elected to teach in common schools the balance of the school year, must have a valid certificate from the County Superintendent of this county, or from the State Normal School of this State, or a permanent certificate from the State Superintendent.

3. The election shall be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the polls shall be kept open until 4 o'clock, and as much longer as may be necessary to give all present an opportunity to vote

4. The Board of Election Officers shall consist of one judge, two inspectors, and two return inspectors, provided that the said Board may appoint as many clerks as they may deem necessary.

5. The following persons shall constitute that Board of Election Officers: A. T. Douthett, J. Allen M'Crum, L. H. Eaton, J. J. Taggart and J. P. Andrews.

6. The five persons having the highest number of votes shall constitute that Committee, provided that if any of those having the highest number shall be ineligible, then of those who are eligible, the five having the highest number of votes shall be declared elected.

The adoption of these articles consumed so much time that a part of the programme for the afternoon was omitted.

Rev. Alex. Clark delivered a lecture on "Heart-Pictures," after which an essay was read, by Miss Francis Smith, on "The Importance of Educating the Young."

The meeting then adjourned till seven o'clock in the evening.

EVENING SESSION.

Exercises opened by the choir singing a piece entitled "The bright and guiding Star."

Rev. J. R. Newell then gave a report on Reading. He said that in teaching reading to children the first thing which should be attended to, should be, first, articulation; second, modulation; then endeavor to convey the idea contained in the words they use. This can be most successfully done by the teacher reading it in such a manner as that the teacher himself may feel what the words contain, then cause the pupil to do so as well as he can. Let every teacher criticise the pupils, criticise only one point at a time, then take another. Let all criticism be kind, careful, gentle.

Mr. Eaton wished to call attention to one point in the matter of reading, and that was the cultivation of the voice. There was not that attention paid to it in reading that should be. The beauty of reading was a full, clear and round tone of voice.

Mr. Hunt thought the voice should not be carried out of its natural tone, that the most important point was that the reader should enter into the spirit of the piece he was reading.

Mr. Kelly said the subject had occupied a great deal of his time. He thought there could be no fixed rule, as that applying to one scholar would not apply to another. The principal thing requisite to make a good reader was articulation. Emphasis was next in importance. The teacher must be a perfect reader to be able to teach the art.

Mr. Burt thought it necessary to make the reading interesting to the scholar, and recommended the calling out of reading classes when there were visitors in the school. He also recommended the system of reading for merit, that is having the scholars select a piece once a week to be read before the school, for which they receive merits according to the manner of reading. Drill was of no consequence unless the scholar was interested in the study.

The discussion on the subject of reading was conducted by some practical illustrations by Rev. J. R. Newell.

In consequence of the absence of Rev. C. A. Dickey, who was to have delivered a lecture before the Institute, Mr. C. C. Steel read a lecture on Truth.

The Chairman announced that the subject of "Queries" had been neglected, but would be attended to at the next session.

Miss Jennie Smith, the Metrical Critique, was introduced, and read a most excellent criticism in rhyme on the proceedings of the Institute during the day.

Rev. J. R. Newell, by request, then recited Rienzi's Address to the Romans.

After music by the choir the Institute adjourned.

The Erie Railroad Trouble---Sensation Denied.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 30.—In the Supreme Court to-day Judge Cardosa adjourned the hearing of the motion to dissolve the Blood-good injunction in the Erie case till April 20th. Messrs Drew and Fiske deny the sensation statement that Jay Gould has taken three millions of the Erie Railroad money to Akron, and say the funds are all held at Jersey City. The Erie Directors are quietly performing their duties at Jersey City, and the business of the road steadily increases.

TRENTON, March 30.—The act authorizing the Erie Railroad Company to have their office to transact business in this State has been signed by the Governor.

GOOD HEALTH

IS THE GREATEST OF ALL BLESSINGS,

And to preserve it is the privilege and duty of all.

DR. SARGENT'S

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC AND LIVER PILLS

Are the great sovereign, speedy and sure cure of the age, for Dyspepsia, either in its mildest or worst stages, and hundreds who have long suffered under the inflictions of this most annoying and dangerous disease, have by the use of this invaluable medicine been restored to health and the enjoyment of life.

Is your Liver in a torpid condition of inaction, thereby deranging the whole system?

DR. SARGENT'S LIVER PILLS

Will speedily remove the secretions and restore it to a healthy state.

Are you troubled with loss of appetite, foul stomach, eructations of wind, sick headache and general derangement of the digestive organs?

DR. SARGENT'S LIVER PILLS

Are a sure, safe and permanent remedy, and by their mild but certain action will cleanse, renovate and reinvigorate the system.

DR. SARGENT'S LIVER PILLS stand high as one of the standard medicines of the age. For the cure of all diseases arising from a disordered state of the liver, as can be attested by the certificates of large numbers of our citizens who have been benefited and cured by their use.

These Pills can be obtained, either Plain or Sugar Coated, from all Druggists in the country.

UNIMPEACHABLE.

Indigestion—the most fruitful generator of disease, so common as not to be considered dangerous—slowly and surely saps the foundation of health, for, with impaired digestion, it is impossible for food to afford strength to the system. Dyspepsia invariably follows this disease, and dyspeptics owe all their sufferings to indigestion. Nervous and sick headache also spring from derangement of the digestive organs. Persons of sedentary habits frequently suffer from these evils, which are attended with a nervous irritability of temper, extremely unpleasant to others and a source of misery to themselves. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS has been found the safest and best means of removing all digestive obstructions, as well as bracing up the failing system. Those whose occupations are mental recognize in this preparation the perfection of medical skill, as it soothes the excited brain, headache disappears under its potent charm, and the patient rapidly regains health and strength by its restoring power. To the aged, as well as delicate ladies and children, it is admirably suited, as it possesses the quality of invigorating without excitement or reaction.

An immense amount of unimpeachable evidence can be produced to prove, that HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is unequalled for its prompt and ever reliable action in alleviating and curing all diseases of the stomach. Its superior excellence and consequent renown is readily accounted for, from the well known fact that it is made under the personal supervision of the proprietors, in strict accordance with pharmaceutic science.

ANOTHER CURE OF DEAFNESS.

I lost my hearing during the last year. Part of the time I was totally deaf. In April of this year I was induced, from an advertisement, to make application to DR. KEYSER, 120 Penn street, Pittsburgh. After having tried various medicines from doctors, without any benefit, I have been under Dr. Keyser's treatment now for nearly two months, and am entirely restored to my hearing, so that I can hear a pin drop. JOHN SCANLAN,

Coal Bluffs, Washington Co., Pa.

ANOTHER CURE.

A man called to-day at Dr. Keyser's office to inform him of a great cure made by his LUNG CURE, or PULMONARY RESTORATIVE. list these cures are made with the Doctor's preparations, he desires it to be distinctly understood that most of his great cures are made in accordance with the established laws that govern the science of medicine, in which he has been engaged for the past twenty-five years. Last week he was also in receipt of a letter from a clergyman in the State of Ohio, detailing another most wonderful cure.

NOTICE.

ASSESSOR'S OFFICE, INTERNAL REVENUE, 23d DISTRICT, PENNA.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to all persons interested that the Lists of Income Tax and Special Taxes, &c., for the Twenty-third District, Penna., will be open for examination at my office, No. 65 WATER STREET, Allegheny, from April 1st to April 10th, 1868, inclusive.
At which time and place I will hear all appeals presented to me relative to any erroneous or excessive valuations, assessments or enumerations made by the Assistant Assessors for said District.
All appeals must be made in writing, and must specify the particular cause, matter or thing respecting which a decision is requested, and shall also state the ground or principle of error complained of. No appeal can be allowed to any party after the list has been transmitted to the Collector. After the above date all persons subject to tax, who have neglected to make returns, will be subject to the penalties provided by law.
D. E. NEVIN,
U. S. Assessor, 23d District, Penna.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, March 30, 1868.

Gold was firmer and higher to-day, 138 being the opening quotation, and 138¾, strong, as the closing rate. The advance is due to large short interest made during the beginning of last week standing uncovered. It was a movement of the bull clique in stocks to move simultaneously in gold, in order to be enabled to advance stocks to a high price in currency, but it seems that importers and speculators in gold have more confidence in lower rates, and thus keep from buying at present. It is not likely that large purchases of gold would be made now on presumption of an early rise, since the May payments are too near at hand, and generally a large number of speculators are disposed to sell short; that might keep the market down until the Treasury would come to their assistance.

In government bonds a better feeling manifested itself early in the day, but towards noon the market fell off about ¼ per cent. on all new gold bonds and seven-thirties.

The stock market is higher and excited, and all kinds of rumors are scattered to effect securities; it is true stocks are low, and even an advance of 4 to 5 per cent. would leave the price below the quotations of January, or even at the beginning of the present month.

In local money matters we have to report an unusual stringency, with no prospect of any immediate relief; even the banks are not in a condition to discount more freely, after the quarterly statement, if they are carrying out the spirit of the law, to which they owe their existence.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, March 30, 1868.

CRUDE—The crude market was only moderately active to-day, the reported sales in the aggregate reaching about six thousand barrels, and with apparently more offers to sell, and a less urgent demand, the general feeling seemed to be a little weak, and spot oil, compared with Saturday, is off fully a quarter of a cent. We can report 500 and 1800 bbls, for immediate delivery, at 8½c; 2000 to be delivered on first water, at 8¾c; and 2000 for April and May, seller's option, at 9c. We heard of offers to buy at 9¼c for each month from now until December; and offers to sell all the year, buyer's option, at 12c. The most noticeable feature was that there were more offers to sell than there were on Saturday, which is usually regarded as an indication of a declining market; though, after all, holders did not seem disposed to yield much in order to effect sales.

REFINED—The market for bonded oil was quiet and apparently a little weak to-day, though there are still more offers to buy than there are to sell. So far as we could learn, there was not a single sale effected to-day, which was owing entirely to the fact that our refiners refuse to accept the figures now prevailing. We are cognizant of offers to buy at 26c for May, and a half cent advance until December; also, 28½ for the last three months of the year. We are also cognizant of an offer to sell April to July at 25½c and a half advance, without finding a buyer, and all the year, buyer's option, at 31c. Spot oil was quoted at 24¾; April at 25c; May at 25¼c; and June at 26c.

ARRIVALS—The following are the reported arrivals of oil to-day:

| | |

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, March 30, 1868.

The fine weather, with which we have been favored for some days past, has imparted more tone to the general markets, and were it not for the stringency in money matters, we could doubtless report a pretty full volume of business. As it is, however, there is a fair business, in the aggregate, and with a pretty good local demand for most of the leading articles, prices are well maintained.

APPLES—We can report a regular demand, and while the market is steady, prices are unchanged, ranging from $4 to $6 per bbl, as to quality.

POTATOES—In steady demand but unchanged; regular sales in store at $3,25 to $3,50 per barrel for Peach Blows and Buckeyes.

SEEDS—Quiet and unchanged; we continue to quote at $8 for Clover; $2,75 for Timothy. Flaxseed is in active demand but unchanged at $2,50.

GRAIN—Winter Wheat is scarce and firm at $2,53 to $2,55 for Red, and $2,60 to $2,65 for White. Oats firm and higher; we have a sale of 1000 bushels at 75c, and same figure offered for two or three thousand bushels more. Corn is steady but unchanged; sales of prime Ear, on wharf, at 98c to $1. Barley is scarce, and prime Spring may be quoted at $2,25 to $2,30. Rye is still quoted at $1,80.

BUTTER—The demand is less urgent, but, as yet, prices are unchanged, ranging from 50 to 55c for prime to choice Roll.

EGGS—Under the influence of increased arrivals are dull and lower, and we quote at 20 to 22c; some dealers refuse to accept these figures, averring that they can do better by shipping.

DRIED FRUIT—Continues quiet and unchanged; we continue to quote at 7 to 8c for Apples, and 10½ to 11½c for Peaches, as to quality.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is firm but unchanged; 11¾@12c for Shoulders; 13¾ to 14c for Ribbed, and 15c for Clear Sides; 17¼ to 17¾c for Plain Sugar Cured Hams, and 18½c for Canvassed do. Lard, 16½c, in tierces, and 17c, in kegs and pails. Mess Pork, $25 to $25,50.

SWEET POTATOES—Prime Jersey Sweets are quoted at $8 per bbl.

ONIONS—Scarce and firm but unchanged at $4,50 per bushel. Onion Setts quoted at $6 to $6,50.

HAY—Loose Hay is scarce and firm but unchanged at $20 to $28, and in some cases, for choice Timothy, $30 is obtained.

FLOUR—There is a fair local demand, and while the market is steady, prices are unchanged; good Spring Wheat, $10,50 to $10,75; choice do, $11 to $11,25; good Winter Wheat, $11,75 to $12,25, and fancy brands, $15 to $16. Rye Flour is held firmly at the advance, $9—in store.

LARD OIL—Is still quoted at $1,10 for No. 2, and $1,35 for No. 1.

ALLEGHENY CATTLE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, March 30, 1868.

CATTLE.

With a larger number of Cattle on sale than there has been for several weeks past, and but very foreign buyers, the market was a little tame to-day, though, in reality, so far as we could see, there is no change in prices. As will be seen, prime to extra cattle sold at from 8¼ to 9½c, which is fully as high as last week; there were more good cattle on sale than there has been for several weeks past, and our butchers experienced no difficulty in making selections, though, it is true, they had to pay pretty well for the privilege. There is a continued good demand for stock cattle, and we can report sales of common to prime western stock steers at from 5¼ to 6½c, and even 7c. How long the present exorbitant prices will be maintained it is difficult at this writing to conjecture; there is usually a break down in the market when grass cattle commence to come in, and we can see no reason why this spring should be an exception, unless it hinges on scarcity. We quote the following sales:

Carr & Vance sold 18 head of fair to prime Ohio steers at 8 to 8¾.

Hedges & Taylor sold 30 head for Messenger, Gillett & Co. at 7½ to 8¼; 15 for King at 8 to 8¼; 22 for Potter (stockers) at at 6 to 6½, and 6 for Keyes (stockers) at 5½.

Stakely & Bro. had 9 head; sold 5 heifers at 6¼.

Haas & Kraus sold 60 head steers (from Chicago) at 7¾ to 9½.

M. Verner 51 head of prime to extra steers (from Chicago) at 8¾ to 9¼.

Hartman & Shamberg sold 50 head of mixed stock (from Chicago) at 6 to 9¼.

Myers & Needy retailed 50 head of good to extra steers (from Chicago) at 7½ to 9; 40 head stockers at 6 to 6¼.

Dolan & Ivory wholesaled 36 head of good Western steers to Myers & Needy at 8, and 15 do prime at 8,80.

Haas & Kraus wholesaled 20 head of prime fat steers to Myers & Needy at 8,65.

Holmes, Lafferty & Glass retailed 68 head of good to extra fat cattle (from Chicago) for Doud & Co. at 8 to 9½; 77 head of Chicago stockers at 6 to 7, and 18 head of good Ohio cattle for Sherrick at 7 to 8¼.

E. Katz sold 8 fresh cows and springers at $50 to $60 per head; also, 13 head of scalawag bulls for Roenbaugh at 5.

L. Shamberg sold 15 head of steers, stags and bulls at 5 to 9; he has 3 premium steers from Licking county, Ohio, avoraging 2100, lbs, for which he asked 12½.

Marks & Traurman report having sold 112 head of Chicago cattle; sold fat cattle at 7¼ to 8½, and stockers held at 6¾.

Blackstock & Hazlewood sold one extra "knock-kneed" steer, the finest and biggest ever offered in this market, to G. W. Evans, at 11c; he weighed 3000 lbs, six feet eight inches high, and 12 feet long. This firm also retailed 57 head of prime to extra Chicago fat cattle at 8½ to 9½.

Greenwald & Kahn sold 76 head of fair to extra Illinois cattle at 7¾ to 9½, and 10 head from Ohio at 7.

Kerwin & Co. bought 11 head of fresh cows at $45 per head; also, 11 head of bulls from Jas. McAllister at 5½.

SHEEP.

There was an exceedingly light supply of Sheep on sale to-day, and the few that were here were of an inferior quality. We had no sales reported above 7¼c, and from that down to 5¼. An extra lot of fat Sheep would doubtless have brought 8 cents, or possibly 8½c, but there were none of this kind in market.

George Garvin reports having sold 58 head, averaging 90 lbs, at an average of 6¼.

J. C. Weller sold 48 head of common to prime Lawrence county Sheep at 5½ to 7¼.

Holmes, Lafferty & Co. wholesaled a car load at the Central Yards this morning at 7,15.

Wolfe sold 14 head at 7.

HOGS.

The retail market continues dull, as butchers take hold sparingly, at present prices, 9c to 11c, gross, for fair to prime heavy averages.

Rothchilds & Byers report having retailed 40 head at 10c to 10¾c.

Emerick & Co. report having retailed 100 head at 10c to 11c.

Holmes, Lafferty & Glass wholesaled one car load of light Hogs at the Central Yards this morning at 8,40.

New York Cattle Market.

[By Telegraph to Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 30.—Receipts for the week, 52,167 head beeves; 15,810 head sheep and lambs, and 21,489 hogs. Beef the latter part of last week was heavy and a trifle lower, but lower, under light offerings, and ruled strong at 18 1-2 to 19c for extra, and 14 to 16 1-4c for inferior and ordinary. Sheep and Lambs tolerably active at full previous rates, viz.: 6 1-2 to 10 1-2c for inferior to extra. Hogs quiet at 10 1-4c, and lower at Communipaw; 23 cars at Fortieth street at 9 3-4c, with few choice at 10 to 10 1-4c.

Farm, Garden and Household.

DON'T LEAVE THE FARM.

Come, boys, I have something to tell you,
Come near, I would whisper it low—
You are thinking of leaving the homestead
Don't be in a hurry to go!
The city has many attractions,
But think of the vices and sins,
When once in the vortex of fashion,
How soon the course downward begins.

You talk of the mines of Australia—
They're wealthy in gold without doubt,
But ah! there is gold on the farm, boys,
If only you'll shovel it out.
The mercantile trade is a hazard,
The goods are first high and then low;
Better risk the old farm a while longer,
Don't be in a hurry to go.

The great, busy West has inducements,
And so has the busiest mart,
But wealth is not made in a day, boys,
Don't be in a hurry to start!
The bankers and brokers are wealthy,
They take in their thousand or so—
Ah! think of the frauds and deceptions,
Don't be in a hurry to go.

The farm is the safest and surest,
The orchards are loaded to-day,
You're as free as the air of the mountains,
And monarch of all you survey.
Better stay on the farm a while longer,
Though profits come in rather slow,
Remember you've nothing to risk, boys,
Don't be in a hurry to go.

Hints About Spring Work.

PRUNING.

In the generality of orchards the very important process of pruning is too much neglected, the trees being permitted to follow their own inclination in the formation of a head. This should not be so, for the productiveness of the tree, and the size and quality of the fruit depend in a great measure on the judicious removal of useless wood, and the encouragement of the growth of those shoots or branches which stand in their proper places. An unpruned tree generally forms a thick, bushy head, and produces either a profusion of unfruitful blossoms, or a large amount of fruit inferior in size and quality. There is generally more time for pruning in winter or early in the spring than in summer or autumn, and there is a better opportunity of seeing the branches when the leaves are off, than when they are covered with foliage.

THE FRUIT GARDEN—THE GRAPE VINE.

Grapes which have been covered during the winter should not be uncovered too hastily in spring; it is better to wait until all danger from severe frost is over than to expose them to the alternate freezing and thawing which takes place in early spring. Accordingly as the culture of the grape is becoming extended, fresh facts in connection with its successful management are being brought out and widely disseminated through the medium of horticultural societies, grape-growers' conventions, etc., and the reports of their proceedings in the agricultural and horticultural papers. Trenching the soil to a considerable depth has been abandoned, and even the selection of elevated sites for vineyards has been discontinued in many places, especially in Missouri, where rich prairie lands are found to yield heavier crops.

RASPBERRIES.

Tender varieties, which have been protected by a covering of some kind during winter, should be uncovered before vegetation commences. If new beds or plantations are to be made, the sooner the plants are set out the better, for after vegetation has commenced, it will not be easy to remove them without breaking the shoots. The plants should not be set deep in the soil; for the young shoots or suckers do not come from the roots, and when the latter are set deep the shoots are sometimes prevented from reaching the surface. As to varieties, Brinkle's Orange is a very fine fruit, but the canes are tender, and the berries do not bear carriage well. The Yellow and Red Antwerp, Franconia and Philadelphia raspberries are valuable, and should be found in every well assorted garden.

THE STRAWBERRY.

As soon as the weather becomes soft, the covering should be raked off strawberry beds, and preparation made for supplying any deficiencies in the beds that may have occurred by the winter-killing of the plants. When set out late in the fall, the plants are liable to be killed by frosts in winter, and on this account, the fall planted beds should be examined in spring and all gaps filled up. Of varieties, the Wilson's Albany is generally preferred for market, but Hovey's Seedling, Jucunda, Boston Pine, Triomphe de Gand, etc., are all superior to it in flavor, and are more desirable for amateur culture.

VEGETABLE GARDEN.

As soon as the frost is out of the ground, preparation should be made for getting in early vegetables. Parsnips, peas and beans, radishes, lettuce, onions, salsify, etc., should be put in as soon as the soil and weather are suitable for the purpose. It is better to wait a month than to till the soil when it is saturated with water. Parsnips and peas are hardy, and may be put in before frosts have disappeared. The construction of hot beds and the sowing of seeds in them should be proceeded with, and abundance of plants raised for setting out in proper season.

ASPARAGUS.

Asparagus beds should be made as soon as the soil and season are favorable. Every owner or occupier of a garden should have a bed of this excellent vegetable. Fine crops of asparagus may be raised without the trouble and expense of excavating beds in the common way. The plants do very well when grown in drills, in rich, deeply-tilled soil. The roots and tops spread considerably, and the plants should be set in drills three feet asunder, and from eighteen to twenty-four inches apart in the drills. Better asparagus can be obtained in this way than in the usual mode of crowding the plants in beds.

RHUBARB.

Rhubarb, or "pie-plant," is a very valuable and wholesome vegetable, and a large bed of it should be found in every garden. It requires deep tillage, the deeper the better, and heavy manuring. The large roots and leaves require plenty of room to extend below and above the soil. Some persons trench the soil to the depth of two feet, when preparing to plant rhubarb, but without good drainage very deep tillage is useless. If propagated by dividing the roots, the plants should be set out singly, and not in threes, as is so often done. One or two buds is sufficient on each dividing root. The ordinary varieties are generally planted in drills two and a half or three feet asunder, the plants a similar distance apart in the rows. Some of the larger varieties require to be planted much farther apart—say five feet between the rows, and three feet between the plants.

COLLECTION OF MANURE.

Manure for the garden should be well decomposed and thoroughly mixed. Garden vegetables are composed of a great variety of ingredients, and in order to meet their wants the manure should be a combination of various substances. No manurial liquid or solid should go to loss around the homestead; bones, ashes, soot, soap-suds; etc., should be applied to the soil of the garden. Bones should be broken into very small pieces before they are used as manure. Some persons state that they are very serviceable when applied in this manner, others prefer to reduce them to powder in a mill, or to a pulp by dissolving them in sulphuric acid. They may be corroded by keeping them in barrels of wood ashes for several months, and wetting the ashes with strong lye.

APPLYING PLASTER.

A correspondent of the Massachusetts Ploughman having asked to be informed of the most proper season of the year for the application of plaster to pasture lands for renovation; also the best method of applying the same, the quantity per acre necessary for a fair trial, and the quality of land to which it is adapted—the editor replied as follows:

"We think the early spring the best season, say the latter part of March or early in April. We would sow it broadcast at the rate of about two hundred pounds to the acre. Hilly pastures, with a northern aspect and a moist, mossy soil, are most benefitted by its application. On granite soil or soils throughout the gneiss formation, which usually contain more or less potash, plaster works promptly and effectively. But on locations where it has not been found to work so well, it should be applied in connection with wood ashes.

"Where plaster has any perceptible effect at all, it brings in a luxuriant growth of white clover and otherwise improves the grasses. Many farmers apply it regularly once in two years, and find it the cheapest and most economical dressing they can apply. It ought to be fresh ground. The dark variety is thought to be the strongest and best."

STEAM PLOWING was the subject of a recent discussion before the American Institute. Mr. James A. Whitney read a paper, describing the attempts which have been made to apply the skilll of the engineer to the operations of the agriculturalist. The greater portion of these had been directed to the problem of plowing by steam power, in which direction the inventors had achieved so little success that all plows of the sort had been gradually abandoned, nor did the writer believe that the feat would ever be successfully accomplished. Several gentlemen declared, from their own personal knowledge, that steam plowing in England had proved a decided success, both in the quality and rapidity of the work performed, and the cost as compared with the old methods.

THE Quincy (Ill.) Herald, 25th inst., notes: "From conversation with many of our country friends who are now in the city in attendance upon the Circuit Court, we are gratified to hear that a very hopeful feeling is generally entertained in regard to crop prospects. The fall wheat is coming on finely, and the favorable weather has permitted the sowing of an unusually large breadth of land in spring wheat, which is already up in many places and promising well. Many farmers have already finished seeding oats, and farm work is generally well ahead.

A GENTLEMAN writing from Richland county, Ohio, says: "Winter wheat looks well in this section of the country, and has the appearance of making a splendid crop—the warm weather of the past week has been very favorable to it. The peach buds were all killed in the early part of winter—but all other kinds of fruit have the appearance of making a good crop.

THE De Witt (Clinton county, Iowa) Observer, 24th inst., says: "Our farmers are now busily engaged putting in their wheat. Much of the low land, however, is too wet to seed. By reference to our files we see that on the 24th of April, 1867, we published a similar item, which shows that our farmers have gone to work nearly a month earlier this year than they did last."

THE Sycamore (Ill.) True Republican, 25th inst., says the farmers of that county are busily employed in sowing their grain, and happy in that prospect for good crops which is so much enhanced by the opportunity of getting seed in the ground thus early.

The Cairo Democrat, 25th inst., says strawberries will ripen in the vicinity of Jonesboro about the 15th of April. A number of peach orchards were in full bloom thereabouts on the 6th of the present month.

The Belmont (Ohio) Chronicle learns by inquiry of farmers that the wheat prospects in that county are very flattering. An unusually large amount was sown, and it looks better than usual at this time of the year.

The Oskaloosa (Iowa) Herald says that but little wheat has been put in so far in that county.

Professional Profits in New York.

In the matter of professional fees, the giants of the New York bar, not to speak of the pigmies, are as fortunate, if we may believe report, as they are skilful. In the Jumel will case, for instance, Mr. Martin, who appeared for the defendant, received a fee of $10,000, while O'Conor, who gained the suit, pocketed $50,000 as his reward. These will cases, often involving the labor of weeks and even months in their preparation, and requiring arguments of an interminable length, seem to be peculiarly profitable. The leading counsel in the Rose will case probably received a fee of $50,000, and in the Parish suit, involving a property of two millions, $200,000 were paid in the same way. The late Daniel Lord numbered John Jacob Astor among his clients. He drew up the will of the millionaire and was one of the executors, drawing as his share for the latter service $10,000. Many of the best speculators in city property are found among the members of this profession. Mr. J. R. Whiting owns Broadway property renting for $27,000, and Mr. Marbury returns an income of $55,000, mostly from the same source; it is reported. But large as these incomes may seem, they are generally the fruit of hard and long-continued labor. Mr. Lord struggled for years without a sign of success, and at the age of 35 was on the point of giving up his profession for something which would afford him a living. It is generally the same story of the triumph of real ability after long trial.—Boston Post.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

GRAND OPENING.

The Announcement of the Season—New Goods at the Wholesale and Retail Dry Goods House of J. W. Barker & Company, No. 59 Market Street.

The Spring trade has opened and our merchants rejoice over heavy sales and handsome orders from their patrons. Their prospects are particularly brilliant, and we dare say, the present business term will prove in the end much more prosperous than any we have experienced since a period long anterior to the breaking out of the late wicked and prolonged rebellion. Some of our merchants have taken the shrewd precaution to keep in the Eastern markets experienced buyers, who exercised proper judgment and purchased only at such times and at such figures as now enable their houses to popularize their goods by selling at very reasonable prices to their patrons, even while the Eastern markets are advancing rapidly. They thus fairly obtained and hold advantage over many of their less enterprising neighbors, who, perchance, failed to lay in their supplies at the proper time, and in common with others were compelled to pay compensating advances to the first dealer to cover the losses sustained, while forced to sacrifice goods in order to "bridge" over the temporary panic with which threatened. Pre-eminently amongst the judicious buyers of this city is recognized Mr. J. W. Barker, the senior member of the house of J. W. Barker & Co., No. 59 Market street, Living in the heart of the market, familiar with all the financial arteries wherein courses the life blood of trade, he is enabled to reap golden advantages for his Pittsburgh house. This season, as in past ones, he has made one of the largest purchases of goods ever brought to the Western market, and at figures which afford a proper idea of the stringency which at times seizes the Eastern importer and jobber. It requires no very great appreciation on the part of the reader to realize what advantageous bargains can be secured by a live merchant, who, taking position as a heavy CASH BUYER, watches the financial storm brewing, and when it breaks out, enters the market as a purchaser. Maturing obligations are relentless; a day's grace is invaluable to the hard pressed merchant, importer or jobber. With hundreds of thousands dollars wrapped up in saleable goods that have no sale, and bank paper pouring in upon him, he is prepared to sacrifice goods for any temporary relief, knowing full well that the market must again rally when with increased marginal profits he can regain all that the passing stagnation in business forces him to lose. Mr. Barker purchased at such judicious periods for buying, and to-day his mammoth establishment, on Market street, rejoices in an immense stock of goods which can be sold at prices which would bring ruin to the doors of most of the leading dry goods and jobbing houses of the Eastern cities. This is no idle assertion, but the plain truth, which any experienced purchaser can satisfactorily demonstrate for himself by favoring the house with a visit. Let us here make a clearer assertion: in quality, selection, variety and assortment, the stock of goods found at Barker's rivals that of the very first importing houses of New York, Boston or Philadelphia, and is equalled by but few establishments in the country, while the prices at which they are held are generally much lower than the actual cost of production. Dealers, those who buy to sell again, will educe from this statement an all important proposition, viz: Is it a matter of economy, to pay railroad fare, hotel bills, traveling expenses and freight, to extend patronage to high priced Eastern houses when afforded at home decidedly better inducements? Is it just to tax customers with the expenses of such a trip, or will not contemporary dealers who buy at home reap all the profits by attracting patrons through the magnetism of popular prices? These questions are worthy consideration and reflection.

However, we do not here propose to discuss political economy so much as an important occasion which is to mark and make memorable the opening of the spring dry goods trade of 1868. We refer to the which takes place to-morrow at Barker's. The firm have been preparing for some time past for this event, and have at great expense remodelled their building throughout to make it conform to their ideas of what constitutes a first-class wholesale and retail dry goods establishment. The building has undergone a decided change, and with its modern improvements is admirably adapted for the proper display and storage of goods. Every department has been refitted, painted, papered and furnished in such a manner as will prove attractive to the visitor. The basement has been thoroughly transformed, and will prove fully equal in appearance to any first-class jobbing salesrooms. Here are kept goods in original packages, and a large part of the wholesale business is transacted in this well lighted and ventilated apartment. The first floor, one of the largest salesrooms in the city, having a depth of some two hundred feet and a proportionate width, with lofty, glistering ceiling, is devoted exclusively to the retail trade. It is lighted with skylights, so constructed as to radiate a soft, subdued and yet strong light into every part of the room, an advantage which cannot be over estimated by purchasers making selections. The apartment is cheerful and inviting in itself, to say nothing of the pleasing variety of colors and shades presented on the the long shelves which grace and traverse walls on either side of the room to its utmost depth. The upper rooms are variously occupied with goods, the principal one, however, being the cloak and shawl apartment. This is a large and handsomely ornamented room, richly furnished and carpeted, and supplied with an unusually large mirror, in which the "becoming qualities" of the oriental shawl or elegant coat may be discovered by the purchaser.

The opening, which takes place to-morrow, will doubtless prove very attractive to both wholesale and retail purchasers, for there will be placed on exhibition such a display of new goods as has seldom been seen in this city. The styles this season are very neat and novel, having undergone decided change from those which prevailed last year. Light and moderately brilliant colors in dress goods seem to predominate, if we are to judge from the endless variety found in the new selection at Barker's.

DRESS GOODS.

The Dress Department is plentifully supplied with all descriptions of elegant standalone silks, satins, poplins, alpacas, organdies, jaconets, lawns, cambrics, percalles, calicoes, and all other goods so familiar to the ladies. The Japan mixture, a novelty in dress material, is very pretty, and affords many different styles and pretty patterns. It will fascinate the visitor, and become very popular for street and indoor wear. We examined the selection of silks and are prepared to award the palm of superiority to the house in goods of this line. Elegant corded patterns, gros-grain, plain, moire antique in all colors and shades are embraced in the stock, and will tempt purchase in the reasonableness of the prices. We cannot do full justice to the dress goods department, even if we felt over-much inclined to anticipate the delight of the ladies who will attend the opening to-morrow, by an advance description of what they will see there. Suffice it to say that there are hundreds of different styles, different patterns and different materials embraced in this new spring stock, which must be seen to be appreciated. Here let us remark, that while some few houses in the East may carry larger stocks, no house in the United States has a wider range of goods, or greater variety to offer its patrons than Barker's.

HOUSEKEEPING GOODS.

In this department will be found all that is new and stylish in the way of general housekeeping goods, such as table cloths, napkins, table and piano covers, diapers, toweling, embroideries, white goods, and everything peculiar to this line of goods. A marked decline in prices will be more strikingly observed, perhaps, in this department than in any other throughout the house, as the value of such ordinary household articles is patent to most persons, especially those engaged in housekeeping.

MOURNING GOODS.

A special department is devoted to mourning goods. It is the intention of the firm to pay particular attention to this branch of trade, and they will always keep it fully supplied with the sombre goods which a highly enlighted people have set aside to give outward evidence of grief and mourning.

HOSIERY AND GLOVES.

This is a new department in this old house, established to meet the wants of patrons. It is supplied with ladies' and gents' hosiery in silk, woolen and cotton, kid, cloth, silk and woolen gloves. The finest quality of kid, and other dress gloves, will be found at the lowest possible market value. Ladies attending the opening to-morrow must not fail to look through the attractions of this department, for they are many.

ORDINARY GOODS.

Sheetings of all widths of the best trade marks, muslins, ticking, skirts, &c., goods of every day character, will be found in appropriate places, and in very choice assortment. Goods of this description, as well as the general stock throughout, do not fluctuate from day to day, as the firm make it a rule to never advance according to the Eastern operators' barometer, but always fall to keep the advantage of popular prices in their line of trade.

CLOAKS AND SHAWLS.

We have referred to the elegant apartment set aside for the display of the latest styles of cloaks and shawls, but made no mention of the remarkably fine display of goods made therein. Cloaks in this branch of the business, like those in the proverb, cover many other things, rather include all the fashionable walking jackets, sacques, basques, and coats which are worn by the fair sex. We were hardly prepared to find, here in Pittsburgh, such a grand display of articles in this line. Their stock, as it will appear at the opening to-morrow, would do credit to a Parisian establishment. It will not be hard to discover what styles are going to predominate this Spring and Summer, if it be true that Fashion loves the beautiful. We have our own judgment on the relative merits of the pretty coats and sacques examined, but we will not trespass on our lady friends' curiosity by proclaiming our verdict, for they must see for themselves. The Vivandiere, a perfect beauty, made of heavy corded silk, trimmed with lace and satin ribbon, is very charming, and will fill the eyes of the young ladies with delight. The Daughter of the Regiment, a very elegant walking coat with decided military appearance, is very neat and becoming. The Jessie, a walking jacket, is charming, while a fluted blouse for a married lady, is the prettiest article of female apparel we have ever noticed. It is of heavy black silk material, exquisitely trimmed with rich satin and lace. It is a triumph of French taste, and while exceedingly dressy and gay, is still modest in its own richness. A silk cloak with vandyke trimmings will command attention. It is plain and neat, and on a sprightly person would not be without its charming effect. There are a great many other styles which are equally worthy of mention, but we have not the space at our disposal to do so. There are a great variety of styles in light colored cloth sacques, cloaks, coats and jackets, variously ornamented with embroidery, satin and inlaid work, which are a vast improvrment in the styles which prevailed last season. Of course the prices in this department take a wide range, but purchasers may depend on getting the full worth of their money in whatever they may select. The firm make a leading specialty in this line of goods, and have a large stock of material for selection by those who prefer having custom made work. Employing skillful seamstresses, and fashionable cutters of long experience, the original home-made work of this firm bears unmistakable marks of superiority, both in design and neatness, and rivals the finest imported Parisian articles which are found in such profusion in this department. They manufacture to order opera cloaks of any description desired, on short notice, and will hereafter prove a favorite feature to the ladies, as the firm purpose devoting careful attention to this specialty.

The display of light and handsome Spring Shawls is simply grand, and we only marvel how selection can be made where so many sparkling beauties and such endless variety are afforded. It is needless to mention the various names used in designating the scores of different patterns; but it is enough to say that never before in this city has there been openad a more complete lot of goods in this line, nor any so brilliant and pretty. The famous cashmire shawl, all the rage in New York, Boston and Philadelphia fashionable circles, is represented in the assortment, and from its chaste beauty and richness deserves the favor it has found wherever introduced. Those who attend the opening should be very particular to enter the shawl department, as it is alone sufficiently attractive to win a visit to the establishment from those least interested in fashionable affairs.

GENERAL ARRANGEMENT.

There are few houses which can lay such high claim to the credit of being well conducted as that of Barker & Co. The numerous departments are in charge of polite and experienced salesmen and lady clerks, who thoroughly understand every detail of their line of business, and are anxious and willing at all times to please those who may favor the establishment either with a purchasing visit or a call to look around and examine the stock. All are respectfully invited to attend the grand opening, which will take place to-morrow, and they can depend on receiving a hearty welcome, and being afforded unusually rare inducements to purchase fresh and seasonable goods for spring wear.

The Fire Alarm and Police Telegraph.

By an arrangement with the Western Union Telegraph Company, Mr. S. T. Paisley, Superintendent of the Fire Alarm and Police Telegraph, has been enabled to make a permanent connection with all the passenger and freight depots in the city by means of the city wire which connects with sixteen different offices, each one of which will answer all the purposes and in fact be more useful than a regular box, as messages can be transmitted from any of the depots to the central office the same as over any other line of telegraph. The connections are as follows: Duquesne Depot, Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad Office, Union Depot, Panhandle Depot, Allegheny Valley Depot, Transfer Depot, Outer Depot, Western Pennsylvania Depot, Allegheny, Stock Yards and Exchange Hotel, East Liberty, and the Outer Depot in Allegheny.

Attempted Burglary.—Saturday night, about half-past eleven o'clock, the door of S. Schult's jewelry store, on Butler street, Lawrenceville, was broken open by burglars. Mr. S. who was sleeping in another portion of the building, heard the noise and arming himself with a pistol entered the store room, and fired at the burglars, who fled. It was stated some time since that four policemen had been detailed for duty in Lawrenceville. We are informed by a resident of that place that there are but two men on duty there, and that they only remain on from ten o'clock in the morning until ten in the evening, and just the time when policemen are most wanted they have none. If this be true the matter should be remedied.

Serious Accident—Leg Broken.

It appears that nothing short of personal experience, and that of the severest character, will teach men common sense even, in regard to the danger in getting out of railroad trains while in motion. Accidents caused by carelessness in this matter occur almost daily, and railroad companies have taken every precaution to prevent persons from endangering their lives in this way, but to no effect. Yesterday, about eleven o'clock, Mr. Thompson, a carpenter, boarding with Mrs. Shannon, on Harrison street, got aboard the Cincinnati Express, at the Union Depot, for the purpose of riding to the outer depot, thinking it was the Walls Accommodation train. After the train had nearly reached the usual place of stopping he discovered his mistake and learning that it would not stop there, jumped off. He fell in such a position that one of the wheels struck his right leg, fracturing both bones below the knee, and terribly lacerating his foot. He was removed to his boarding house, where the fracture was reduced. It is thought the leg will have to be amputated.

A "Mill."

Saturday afternoon a "mill" took place at Perrysville, between Fred. Haas, of Allegheny, and Robert Nixon, of West Pittsburgh, in which Haas lost one-half of his moustache. It appears that the affair was preconcerted, and the aspirants for pugilistic fame had made every arrangement for the "mill," even to the selection of seconds. Tom Hughes for Haas, and John Woods for Nixon. The "mill" was to have been a "rough and tumble," and such it was, but it came off a little previous. The parties arrived at Perrysville at about the same time, and in a few moments afterwards entered into a conversation in regard to the preliminaries, on which it appears there was a slight misunderstanding, which brought them to blows, several of which passed, when Nixon siezed Haas' moustache and pulled one side of it out. The seconds then interfered and the "mill" ended.

Division No. 31 Sons of Temperance.

At a meeting of the Crystal Spring Division, No. 31, Sons of Temerance, held on Saturday evening, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: W. P., J. C. Heazley; W. A., J. D. Lewis; R. S., A. L. Minnemyer; A. R. S., T. B. Evans; F. S., W. G. Turney; Treas., I. A. Willis; Con., A. Cassell; A. C., Reese Price; I. S., C. McNish; O. S., D. Hatch; Chap., T. C. Davis; 1st L. A., Miss Mollie Northwood; 2d L. A., Jenny Baird; 3d L. C., Mary E. Hughes; Lady Con., Mrs. Maggie Cassell, Lady Sen., Mrs. L. C. Lighthill.

The open installation exercises will take place on Saturday evening.

Commonwealth vs. Tack, Schalk, et al.

The Court at Philadelphia has ordered this important case to be tried. The day of trial is fixed definitely for Tuesday, the 14th day of April, 1868. All witnesses, as well as all others interested, will please take notice accordingly. It will be gratifying to the public to know that this much talked of case will at least be decided by the Court and Jury according to law. We will report the trial fully.

Larceny by Bailee.—John Kommer made information before Alderman Taylor yesterday, against James Thompson for larceny by bailee. The prosecutor, who resides in the Ninth ward, alleges that the accused got possession of a trunk containing clothing to the value of eight dollars, the property of the prosecutor, which he converted to his own use or the use of some person other than the rightful owner. He was arrested and held for a hearing.

Accident on the Pennsylvania Railroad.—Sunday afternoon the Cincinnati Express train west on the Pennsylvania Railroad ran against a German traveller, who was walking on the track, near Lilley station, Cambria county, knocking him over an embankment and breaking three of his ribs. The train was stopped and the injured man taken Wilmore station, where he received the proper medical attention. His injuries are not considered dangerous.

False Pretence.—James C. Hutchison of Soho, made information before the Mayor, yesterday, charging Andrew J. Elliott with obtaining goods under false pretence. He alleges that the defendant stated that a third party owed him two hundred dollars, which would be due in a few days. A warrant was issued but the defendant is "Non Est." An excelent case of false pretence for the grand jury to impose the costs upon the prosecutor.

Failed to Pay his Wharfage.—George H. Ward, the proprietor of Ward's Landing, on the Allegheny river, yesterday made information before Alderman Strain, charging John McCracken with fraud. He alleges that the accused landed a raft of lumber at his wharf and kept it there all night, and removed it without paying wharfage. The defendant was arrested and held for a hearing.

For Congress.—By a card in to-day's GAZETTE Thomas Howard, Esq., is formally announced as a candidate for Congress in the 22d District, subject to the nomination of the Republican County Convention. Mr. H. is an old citizen, a prominent member of the bar, and has been closely identified with the Republican party since its existence.

Nuisance.—David Hayworth made information before Alderman Strain yesterday, charging Lawrence Sullivan with maintaining a nuisance. The prosecutor resides on Gazzam's Hill, where he alleges the accused has a stone quarry, and that he annoyed the whole neighborhood by blasting rock. He was arrested and held for a hearing.

Surety of the Peace.—Thomas Foley made information before Alderman Strain yesterday against Hannah Wickham for surety of the peace. The parties reside at Woods Run, and it is alleged by Foley that Hannah swears she will compel him to leave the neighborhood. She was arrested and held for a hearing.

The publishers of the Northern Monthly have sent us the April number. It is good, very good, but not so good as either of the last three numbers. It is always up to its own high standard, but this time it is not beyond it. "A Plea for Good Reading" will probably be considered as the best article this month.

Forcible Entry.—George Raymer made information before Alderman M'Masters, yesterday, charging Pat Brogan and Laughlin M'Creery with forcible entry. It is alleged by the prosecutor that the defendants entered upon his premises in Allegheny City by force. A warrant was issued for their arrest.

An Officer in Trouble.—Mary Graham yesterday made information before the Mayor, charging John Little, constable of the Eighth ward, with assault and battery. She alleges that he seized her rudely by the arms and otherwise ill treated and abused her. He was arrested and held for a hearing.

Another Wife Beater.—Rosa Reed made oath before Alderman Taylor, yesterday, charging her husband, David Reed, with assault and battery. The parties reside at No. 33 Pine street. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the accused.

Messrs. W. C. & F. P. Church, send us the Galaxy, in which Steven Lawrence still goes on, and a host of other good things are contributed by persons who can generally boast of having not yet become hackneyed.

There will not be many new buildings erected in the city during the present year. The want of dwelling honses has been more than supplied.

COAL MINERS' RIOT.

The Coal Miners of O'Neil's Works Attacked by Two Hundred Men from Six Mile Ferry—One Man Killed and Five Wounded.

A riot occurred at John O'Neil's coal works, at Pine Creek, on the Monongahela river, about four miles above McKeesport, Monday evening, of which we have received the following particulars: The miners at O'Neil's works, who have for several weeks been on a "strike," Monday morning went to work, it appears, at reduced wages, and about five o'clock in the evening two hundred miners from Six Mile Ferry arrived at O'Neil's works, armed with clubs, and demanded that they should stop work. O'Neil and his men, anticipating the attack, had armed themselves for it and resisted the demand, whereupon a general riot ensued. O'Neil's men fired on the attacking party, killing one man, wounding four slightly and one seriously. Mr. O'Neil was severely beaten with clubs, but not dangerously injured. At ten o'clock the mob from Six Mile Ferry had withdrawn, and returned, and the works were guarded against a further attack by one hundred armed men.

An Explanation.

The case of Allegheny County for use vs. W. A. Herron, late Clerk of the Quarter Sessions, the decision of which we noted yesterday, we should have stated arose from a difference of opinion, or judgment, as to the law, between Mr. Herron and the County Controller, concerning the appropriation of certain fees accruing from liquor licenses. The fees in dispute were paid to the County Auditors, during the existence of that Board, to defray expenses in the way of stationery, &c., and Mr. Herron holds the receipts of the Auditors for amounts paid them. When that Board was abolished, and the Associate Judges of the Quarter Sessions made the Board of License, by order of those Judges Mr. H. retained one-half the fees, for expenses for stationery, &c., paying the remainder to the Judges, for which he holds their receipts. Under the decision of the Court, as we announced yesterday, Mr. H. is held responsible for the whole amount, independent of his vouchers from the Auditors and Associate Judges. Mr. Herron's action in the matter was by advice of counsel, and under that advice will carry the case to the Supreme Court.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—Lotta, the most charming of all actresses, commenced the second week of her engagement last night. The house was crowded to its utmost capacity with a highly appreciative audience. "Little Nell and the Marchioness" were presented, in which Lotta sustains the title role. The audience were enraptured, and called her before the curtain at the close of every act. It will be repeated again to-night.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—The entertainments at the Old Theatre are the best of that class ever produced in this city, and the Theatre Comique may now be looked upon as permanently established. The public are indebted to Mr. Ames, for the liberality and energy displayed, and we are pleased to see his efforts to please so highly appreciated.

Sale of Real Estate.—On Saturday the house and lot owned by Mr. M. Daly, on the corner of Sixth and Smithfield streets, was sold at auction by Mr. A. McIlwaine, at $21,100. Mr. William Bissell was the purchaser. Four years ago the same piece of property was thought enormously high at $7,000. The lot has a front of twenty feet on Smithfield and runs back along Sixth street sixty feet to an alley. The building erected on it is an ordinary three-story brick of but trifling pecuniary value. The premises are subject to an annual ground rent of forty-seven dollars.

Letter of Instructions.—United States District Attorney, R. B. Carnahan, has issued a very important circular letter, addressed to the United States Commissioners of the Western District of Pennsylvania, on the subject of the disposition of criminal complaints without making any report whatever to him or the United States District Court Clerk. The circular clearly sets forth the powers and duties of the Commissioners in all cases which come up before them. We regret our space will not permit the publication of the concise document in full for general information.

This Evening Rev. Thomas K. Beecher will deliver his admirable lecture on "A Search for Summer: or, What I Saw in South America," before the County Teachers' Institute. The lecturer and the auspices under which he appears are, or ought to be, sufficient to fill the Fourth Ward School Hall, on Penn street; but the subject is so entertaining a one that it needs scarcely any recommendation.

A Family Quarrel.—Bridget Kennedy, a resident of Kilgore's court, made information before Mayor Blackmore, yesterday, charging her brother-in-law, Michael Kenhedy, with assault and battery. She alleges that Michael came to her house and interfered with her affairs, when she requested him to leave, whereupon he struck her. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

Aggravated Assault and Battery.—Peter Devlin made information before Mayor Blackmore, yesterday, charging James Carr with aggravated assault and battery. The parties reside in Pitt township, and it is alleged by the prosecutor that the defendant struck him with a shovel, inflicting a severe and dangerous wound. He was arrested and held for a hearing.

The Jury Act.—Mr. Ford has introdnced in the State Legislature "an act to repeal an act for the better and more impartial selection of jurors in each of the counties of this Commonwealth," passed April 10th, 1867, and in force but a short time. Mr. Ford proposed to repeal the act so far as it relates to Allegheny county.

In consequence of the decline in the New York cotton market, Bates & Bell, No. 21 Fifth street, have reduced their prices in all lines of cotton goods. Purchasers will find the best makes of dark prints at only 12½ cents per yard; bleached and unbleached muslins in proportion. Call in and secure the advantages afforded by the decline in prices.

A Felonious Assault.—Charles M'Grogan made information before the Mayor yesterday, charging William M'Grogan with felonious assault. He alleged that the accused attacked him with a butcher knife. The parties reside at Walker's Mills. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the accused.

Serious Affair.—Alice Doran, who yesterday made information before the Mayor, charging John Donnelly with felonious assault and battery, an account of which we published yesterday, is in a very critical condition, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

Disorderly Conduct.—Hannah M'Gowan made information before Justice Ammon, of East Birmingham, yesterday, charging Catherine Sheltz with disorderly conduct. The parties reside in Brownstown. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the offender.

False Pretence.—John Connell, charged, on oath of Jonathan Kammerer, a boarding house keeper at 32 Diamond, before Alderman Strain, with obtaining board under false pretence, was arrested yesterday and held for a hearing.

She Repents.—An Indianapolis letter says: "Anderson's wife, whose elopement in Cincinnati caused some scandal, came back to the Professor, in this city, a few days ago, and was received with open arms."

The Leaves of the Tree Were for the Healing of the Nations.

We have published the celebrated medical advertisement of Dr. H. T. Helmbold. Previous to doing so, we have received a moderate reward in the usual way of payment, which we apply to all the wares, wants and business cards we present to our readers. It is our custom to examine everything thoroughly which we offer through our columns, and to refuse all that we cannot commend. Now, as our readers know we never do anything by halves, they can readily infer that when a so-called medical advertisement occupies a whole page in the Church Union, we mean something by it. It is not our purpose to dodge or tergiversate, or wink at any such thing. We have no managing agent who smuggles into one column what is boldly condemned in another. The Gettysburg Asylum swindle came to us; we judged not by feeble sense, popular disfavor, nor by Congressional action, but we examine for ourselves, and no money in the world could buy one inch of the Church Union to commend it. Precisely the same course we pursued towards Helmbold's Buchu. We had seen it everywhere; it haunted our vision on rock, mountain, and curbstone; in the cars, on steamboats, and by the wayside, we saw this omnipresent specific advertised. We never gave it a thought—never condemned it, never commended it; did not rush in the face of prejudices, and cry out quack! quack! We knew nothing of it; had other, and, we thought, more important subjects for contemplation, than this wonderful medicine. So when it came up for our consideration, we determined to investigate for ourselves. As we do in theology, so do we in medicine—never ask, "What does Dr. so and so think, or say, or surmise?" If it is wrong, all the world may espouse, yet let our right hand forget its cunning, and our tongue cleave to the roof of our mouth, if we waver one atom in our devotion. If it be right, not even the fact that a host commend, and a fortune is being made out of it, shall keep us from fidelity to it. For there be many men so mean in this world that they will never advocate a good thing if anybody gets a good living by it. We know of men who won't hear Henry Ward Beecher preach, because he lives in a brown-stone front, and manages to keep the wolf from the door, quite easily. Just so with Dr. Helmbold; because he is making a fortune by his enterprise, we cannot bend ourselves to the mean talk of condemnation and wholesale slander. There is something about the man you like at once. He is no quack. A quack is an empiricist, who tampers with disease, by applying remedies he knows nothing about. Dr. Helmbold is an educated man; he is frank in every respect; readily lays before you the ingredients or vegetable compounds of his medicine. The very process of distillation are perfectly patent; there is no diabolical decoction or compounding of elements that are vile, and of course, secret. Everything is open and above board; what he does he knows; you cannot be in his establishment three minutes without seeing that he is a man who knows what he is about. All the world may know that the medicine he sells so largely all over the world, is the very best diuretic known. It is in strict accordance with the text at the head of this article. It is but the leaf of a shrub or tree, gathered by the wild Hottentots, and has been known for many years. Many others have used, and bear ample testimony to its usefulness. We dare any unprejudiced physician to test its virtues and not yield to its superior merit. There are other ingredients, as his advertisement shows. And now having a good thing, devoted to it with an enthusiasm which bespeaks honesty at once, what can we say, what need we say? The diseases treated are, some of them, peculiar and fearful; but did our Saviour shrink from the loathsome leper, because the world did? The buchu is a specific remedy, and ought to go over all this world, if it is what any scientific man can prove it to be. Believing it to be a blessing, we have allowed it place, and shall do it again, and for any and every good thing. As a toad or a viper, would we shrink from error or evil, whether of Church or State; but every good thing we advocate. Let the insane man who cries out quack at everything medicinal, pause, reflect and come to his senses. Quackery is empirical, but such is not the buchu; nor of such is the enterprising and enthusiastic man who is bound to succeed, because he wields right. Success to the buchu. Let the leaves of the tree be for the healing of the nations.

A Dangerous Disorder.

It is very common, too; over one-third of the people of this city have a habit of hawking and spitting, nostrils dry and inflamed, matter running from the head down the throat, dullness and dizziness of the head, memory impaired, loss of smell, ringing or deafness of the ears, sore throat, catch cold easily in the head, pain or soreness in the left chest, side, or under the shoulder blades. Such persons have Catarrh most decidedly. Some have all these symptoms others only a few. Not two physicians in one hundred detect this disease or know it when present; few are bold enough to assert that they can cure it. It is an ulceration of the head, and the festering matter runs down the throat into the stomach, causes indigestion, liver complaint, and ends in consumption. All lung complaints commence with Catarrh; bronchitis is caused only by Catarrh. Medicines taken in the stomach can never cure it. But it is fully cured by Dr. Wolcott's Instant Pain Annihilator, a liquid that cleanses the head of the filthy matter that drops in the throat and mouth from the ulcer in the head, and heals it up permanently. This standard remedy has signatures of over one thousand prominent physicians in its favor; over one hundred thousand bottles are sold each month. The pain in chest, side, or any other pain, is instantly relieved by painting with Dr. Wolcott's famous remedy, PAIN PAINT. If you don't believe it come to 170 Chatham Square, New York, and 622 Arch street, Philadelphia, in the Drug Store, and try it free of cost. Both of these remedies are sold at all drug stores, in white wrappers only. Buy none in brown wrappers. Pain Paint and Annihilator tested free of charge, at No. 116 Smithfield Street, Pittsburgh. S. H. Hastings, agent.

CITY ITEMS.

Dried Rubber Teeth--$12 a Set.

Dr. Spencer, No. 254 Penn street, is prepared to furnish Artificial Teeth on Dried Rubber at twelve dollars a set, which is three dollars a set less than they are advertised in this community. At the same time he wishes it distinctly understood that he does not recommend them, nor does he in any way hold himself responsible for this class of work, as it is worthless. The genuine Vulcanite, as the license specifies, cost twenty dollars a set and these plates he will warrant, and hold himself individually responsible for. Persons desiring the genuine or imitation will do well to call at No. 254 Penn street, at the Original Laughing Gas establishment.

Genuine Vulcanite.

Dr. Q. A. Scott will not make any "dried rubber" sets of teeth, as he considers them to be utterly worthless. As he is a licensee under the Goodyear patents he manufactures the Genuine Vulcanite, and warrant his work for five years. His work is well known to be the best turned out in this city, and when the people learn that his prices are as low as those of others, they will give him the preference. He extracts teeth without charge when artificial teeth are ordered, and gives laughing gas when desired, but recommends a safer anaesthetic. The Doctor will furnish a set of teeth for eight dollars, and better in every respect than a "dried rubber" set. No. 278 Penn street, third door above Hand.
